YOUNG BRITISH COLUMBIA FACES UP TO FUTURE

Queen's Scouts from all parts of the province toured the Provincial Museum and Archives today before receiving Queen's Scout certificates from Lieut.-Gov.

ernor Frank Ross in an impressive ceremony at the Crystal Garden. Tonight they will be guests of the Provincial Scout Council at dinner. (See page 19.)

B.C. TEACHERS DEMAND HIGHER WAGE SCALES

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia school teachers voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to seek higher salaries. They say they want the right to strike if necessary.

More than 600 delegates to the annual B.C. Teachers' Federation convention rejected a recommendation from their salary committee that they retain the present minimum wage scales for another year.

The committee was instructed to draw up a higher scale and report back later today.

During a two-hour debate, the teachers also asked that the Public Schools Act be amended so that arbitration awards need not be accepted unless there is prior agreement by both parties. Executive assistant J. A. Sprague said this "could mean the right to strike."

Gov't Used RCMP as Alibi In Norman Case—Diefenbaker

(See also Page 12)

TORONTO (BUP) — Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker charged the federal cabinet today with trying to hide a breakdown in cabinet solidarity by using the RCMP as its alibi in the Norman case. Diefenbaker told a news conference that the RCMP had a world-wide reputation for care and accuracy, and that it did not "deserve the stigma of inefficiency."

Diefenbaker made the statement when asked for comment on the government's statement that the United States Senate internal security subcommittee learned of Ambassador E. Herbert Norman's university days' association with left-wingers from a RCMP security report, which was later corrected.

The Conservative leader, in Toronto to start his nationwide election campaign tonight, said that the Norman case was not one on which he would wish to dwell upon personalities.

But he said that it represented a series of affirmations and denials, contradictions

UN CHIEF SCORES RADIATION PANIC

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld cautioned today against creating panic by "half-baked" statements about atomic radiation dangers.

He was answering a question whether, in view of Japanese and Indian agitation for the cancellation of nuclear weapons tests, and statements by the pope, Albert Schweitzer and others against such experiments, the UN atomic radiation committee should not speed its work in determining the danger from nuclear fallout.

Three B.C. Men On Lost Plane

Missing on Penticton-Vancouver Flight; Pat Bay Operator Heard Call Letters

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of a real estate firm, the head of a mortgage company and a free-lance radio producer were missing today aboard a small private airplane which disappeared Wednesday night on a 175-mile flight from Penticton to Vancouver.

The single-engine plane was owned and piloted by Walter L. Dalton, president of Dalton Ltd., a Vancouver insurance and real estate firm.

One of the passengers was Robert W. McLochlan, head of McLochlan Mortgage Co. The other was Fred McDowell, 46, free-lance radio producer and writer. All are from Vancouver.

The air force sent four search planes into the air today from Vancouver, but two of them gave up the hunt temporarily because of cloud.

IN VALLEYS
One landed at Abbotsford, and the other returned to Vancouver. An air force spokesman said there was heavy cloud in the valley about 125 miles east of here where the search was concentrated, but "we have great hopes that it will clear."

The spokesman said weather in the area Wednesday night was ideal, and added: "I can't understand why he got lost."

Visibility was 15 miles and there was scattered cloud only at the 6,000 and 25,000-foot levels.

The search was concentrated in an area from Princeton, 30 miles westward.

Mr. McDowell's wife said here she assumed he was aboard the plane. He left Vancouver for Penticton Wednesday with Mr. Dalton on a combined business and pleasure flight and phoned her at 6 p.m., saying he was flying back.

Mr. McDowell was sponsor's representative for the CBC program Harmony House. For 10 years he worked for James Lovick and Co., a Vancouver advertising firm. He once produced an early morning radio show for radio station CKOK in Penticton. He also was on the staff of CKDA, Victoria.

The lost plane, a Navion, left Penticton at 7:46 p.m. It carried only enough fuel to stay aloft until midnight.

HEARD PLANE

Robert Reading, 19-year-old trainee radio operator at Patricia Bay airport said he heard "what I think was the missing plane" on the air at about 10 p.m.

He said he could distinguish over the crowded airwaves were the plane's identification letters—IDP.

They were identified as A. B. Crump, J. Kincaid, T. Hutchins, and W. Buss.

"There was not the slightest deviation or variation in detail in the stories they tell with an earnestness that defies ridicule," the newspapers noted.

Description

The men were out hunting in the vicinity of Horne Lake, midway between Great Central Lake and Comox Lake when they came upon the beast.

This is their description: "The wild man was apparently young, with long and matted hair and beard, and covered with a profusion of hair all over the body."

"He ran like a deer through the seemingly impenetrable tangle of undergrowth and pursuit was utterly impossible."

Eisenhower Doctrine Faces First Real Test

MIDEAST AT A GLANCE

AMMAN—Jordan put under martial law by King Hussein as anti-Communist Khalidi government forced out of office; king orders all political parties dissolved, curfew clamped down.

CANNES, France—American super-carrier Forrestal breaks off goodwill visit to France, sails suddenly for eastern Mediterranean, apparently to back Eisenhower pronouncement that Jordan independence vital to world peace.

CAIRO—Syria's president arrives from Damascus, goes into conference with Nasser.

LONDON—Britain says Jordan's independence and integrity "essential elements" in maintaining Middle East peace.

AUGUSTA, Ga.—Eisenhower keeps close watch on Jordan situation from Georgia vacation headquarters.

(From CP and UP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—The United States sent the 6th Fleet into Middle East waters today and followed up with an accusation that "international communism" is posing a threat "to the independence and integrity of Jordan."

All Americans, including diplomatic personnel, were evacuated from the Jordan section of Jerusalem.

Lincoln White, state department press officer, read a statement which used words employed in a congressional resolution authorizing the use of force if necessary to block Red aggression in the Middle East.

But in response to long series of questions, White declined either to explain the nature of the threat or to say what if anything the U.S. would do if King Hussein of Jordan requested help.

Today's statement was a follow-up to a White House warning Wednesday night to Jordan's Arab neighbors against any effort to carve up the little kingdom.

Super-Carrier Sails on Short Notice

The fleet order sent the 60,000-ton supercarrier Forrestal, two cruisers and a force of destroyers steaming toward Middle East water so fast that 150 of the Forrestal's crew, on leave in Paris, were left behind.

King Hussein has attributed his country's troubles to "international communism and its followers." He said Wednesday that he could handle the situation without outside help.

Today as King Hussein struggled to preserve his government against a leftist-led revolt, here were the major developments:

Troops Guard Jordanian Capital

4. Troops from Saudi Arabia and Iraq were reported to have taken up positions shielding the Jordanian capital of Amman from the pro-Communist Palestine section of the country on the west and from pro-Communist Syria in the north.

5. Israel radio reported King Hussein has arrested former premier Suleiman Nabulsi and that a number of army officers are being held in custody.

6. The Foreign Office announced in London it considers Jordan's stability "essential" to Middle Eastern peace and that it is consulting "other nations" on the new crisis.

7. The ultra-nationalist Herut Party in Jerusalem demanded that Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion recall parliament from vacation to consider the Jordan situation. Informed sources said Ben-Gurion was not likely to act. Both Ben-Gurion and Israeli Army Chief of Staff Maj.-Gen. Moshe Dayan were away from Jerusalem.

8. Syrian president Shukri El Kuwattil, Maj.-Gen. Awfik Nizam El Din, Syrian army chief of staff, Foreign Minister Salah Bitar and other officials flew from Damascus to Cairo for consultations with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

There were no indications that French and British naval units also in the Mediterranean had received similar orders to the U.S. fleet.

However, all three nations could act under their 1950 agreement to come to the aid of any Middle Eastern nation threatened by aggression.

Strict censorship continued to cloud the situation inside Jordan, but United Press correspondent Joe Morris reported from Amman, the capital, that the Jordanian army had firm control of the city.

Armored units also were ordered to take over the Jordan section of Jerusalem, Jericho and Nablus.

Reports from Jerusalem said that a number of persons had been killed or wounded in Wednesday's clashes between security forces and demonstrators. They said a number of policemen had joined the demonstrators.

One hundred soldiers were reported guarding the American Consulate in Old Jerusalem where rival sound trucks alternately were exhorting the populace to remain peaceful at home or to demonstrate in the streets.

40 Evacuated From Floods On Prairies

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—The flood waters of the Carrot and Leather Rivers today were forcing the evacuation of about 40 persons from the Two Rivers Bible Institute 25 miles south-east of Nipawin and 100 miles east of here.

The institution stands at the forks of the two rivers and already several of its buildings have been floated away in the rampaging spring flood waters. Wednesday night, 30 head of cattle were stranded.

The 40 persons, including women and children, have been forced out of all but one of the buildings. Several hogs have been drowned and the central heating system of the institution has been out of operation for two days. The fresh water supply was cut off.

Communications with the institution and with several farmers in the area have been cut off as the overflowing rivers washed out power lines.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Lord of heaven and earth, who hast given us skill to plant the seed, grant us patience to await its fulfillment, while Thou dost bless the land with rain and sunshine in due season. Enable us in like faith and hope to sow the seed beside all waters and to await with patience its fulfillment in the conversion of mankind, while Thou dost bless our efforts and prayers continually; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

SEEN ON VANCOUVER ISLAND EARLY IN CENTURY

Sasquatch Search Heads Wrong Way

By PETER MURRAY

It seems fairly clear the people of Harrison Lake and Agassiz will be wasting their centennial grant if they go looking for the hairy Sasquatch in the hills north of the Fraser Valley, as they now plan.

Even if they find something it is not likely to be anything more than an anemic descendant of the original Sasquatch of Vancouver Island.

If they are really sincere about this project they should send their expedition into the remote fastness of central Vancouver Island.

Mrs. E. B. Tinkham of Port Angeles, possibly had her tongue in her cheek when she wrote to Victoria Chamber of Commerce Wednesday saying she intended to seek the Sasquatch in Saanich.

But research on the subject today shows the Island undoubtedly was the first home of the legendary giants, the Harrison Hot Springs Board of Trade notwithstanding.

Never Caught

As long ago as 1904, search parties tramped the wooded trails and mountain passes of the Island tracking the Sasquatch.

Nobody ever caught one, mind you, but some came close.

And many more claimed they saw him.

Indian lore on the subject runs the gamut from myth to realistic reports of the "wild men" spotted in various districts.

According to one theory, the Island Sasquatch are the survivors of a once-powerful tribe gifted with the power of mesmerism hiding from civilization in mountain caves.

Another tale has it that the medicine men of the coastal Indian tribes, the Hamatsi, taught that no one dwell on the central mountains of the Island except evil spirits, which took visible form in the Sasquatch.

James Hagerty, White House press secretary, said the matter was "too technical" for him to discuss.

These mystic figures killed grouse with sling shots and crude bows and arrows and lived on berries and roots of the forest.

There's another more earthy version which was kicked around at the turn of the century, stemming from the arrival of the Spaniards on the west coast.

Took Refuge

A large ape or gorilla escaped from one of the Spanish vessels and took refuge in the forest.

Fire Sweeps Seminary, 650 Escape

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—Fire raged today through a 100-year-old section of the Joliette Seminary in this town 50 miles north of Montreal.

The fire was discovered while most of the 580 students were on the recreation grounds. The seminary had a staff of 70 and all were believed to have escaped.

The fire was believed to have started in a fourth-floor dormitory in the oldest section of the five-story stone and wood structure. Plumbers had been working in the dormitory and it was believed a blow torch may have started the blaze.

They were identified as A. B. Crump, J. Kincaid, T. Hutchins, and W. Buss.

"There was not the slightest deviation or variation in detail in the stories they tell with an earnestness that defies ridicule," the newspapers noted.

This is their description: "The wild man was apparently young, with long and matted hair and beard, and covered with a profusion of hair all over the body."

"He ran like a deer through the seemingly impenetrable tangle of undergrowth and pursuit was utterly impossible."

U.S. Asks Ban On A-Research

LONDON (AP)—The United States proposed today that all research on intercontinental ballistic missiles be halted in the first stage of any disarmament agreement.

United States delegate Harold Stassen told the United Nations disarmament subcommittee the initial step should include measures to prevent the development of all outer space nuclear weapons.

I see where Mister St. Laurent's son an' Mister Bennett didn't speak while on th' plane they shared. But 'twarn't nothin' t' git up in th' air about.

Guess about now King Hussein'll be askin' Washington: Is there a Doctrine in th' house?

Lucky fer us they weren't as slow makin' B.C. as they are decidin' how t' celebrate th' makin'.

EYES OF THE WORLD centred on Jordan today where in the latest crisis martial law has been imposed as King Hussein seeks to form a new government. Underlined cities are Jordan's largest, and in which total curfew is in force. (AP Wirephoto.)

Socreds 'Nuts', Says PM's Son

Jean-Paul St. Laurent, member of parliament for Temiscouata and the prime minister's son, describes Social Crediters as a bunch of "crackpots and nuts."

"If the Socreds send a candidate against me he will not get 100 votes," Mr. St. Laurent told a Liberal party rally at Vancouver Wednesday night.

"Social Credit can spend all the money they like to tell you they're winning support in the east, but they are not and they will not."

He reiterated that his father does not plan to retire after the June 10 election. He told the rally that "if Providence gives my dad the same health he has today he will be back in the 1961 election."

Saying that the country does not "want to hear from those crackpots across the floor" of the House—the opposition—Mr. St. Laurent added we "would willingly give up two seats in the east for one seat in the west for the good of Canada—we must have in our caucuses more people from the west to get the real views of this part of the country."

Harold Winch, CCF member of Parliament for Vancouver East, says Premier Bennett stuck his neck out in Ontario and "got it chopped off."

DISMAL FLOP

"All his bluffing now can't hide the fact the Toronto meeting was a dismal flop," Mr. Winch said at a CCF meeting here.

"The premier's gross miscalculation has convinced me Social Credit will not elect one member east of Alberta."

Mr. Winch also criticized a statement in which the premier is reported to have said that Canada has no foreign friends.

"Canada has greater influence and respect today than ever before," Mr. Winch said.

Mr. Winch is expected to be re-nominated May 1 to defend Vancouver East.

Fergie Brown, cartage company traffic manager, was named Wednesday night to contest Vancouver-Kingsway riding for the Progressive Conservatives in the June 10 election.

The only B.C. riding in which the Conservatives now have not named a candidate is Kootenay East.

All Progressive Conservative candidates for B.C. ridings will gather in Vancouver Saturday for a campaign meeting.

The candidates will get together with their campaign managers and party officials to work out strategy and policy details.

Escaped

He told of being captured by a group of huge, strange men and escaping after they tossed him over a cliff.

Reports of the wild man's existence on the Island were so persistent that in the spring of 1928 an expedition was organized in Vancouver.

It was under the direction of Jason Ovid Allard, 80-year-old adventurer, historian and lineal descendant of the legendary T'shoshia, who was king of the Cowichan Indian nation extending from Saanich to Comox and up the Fraser to Yale.

Allard went first to Washington where he interviewed a Henry Napoleon of the Clallam tribe who claimed to have come in contact with the Sasquatch.

"I had been visiting relatives near Duncan, and was warned not to go too far into the wilderness," Napoleon told Allard.

"However in following a buck I had wounded, I went in farther than I expected. It was almost twilight when I came across an animal that I believed to be a big bear."

Spoke to Me

"But as I aimed at it with my gun, the creature looked up and spoke to me in my own tongue. It was a man about seven feet tall, and his body was very hairy."

Napoleon said he was invited to meet the rest of the tribe and was led into an underground trail.

The Sasquatch hibernates like a bear in the winter months, Napoleon said. In the summer it raided coastal tribes and carried off women and children.

Allard was told that the Puntledge tribe was practically wiped out about 1850 in a night raid of strange natives from Forbidden Plateau.

Coast Indians today are still leery about going into the Plateau area.

Allard tracked down a number of rumors and legends and found no concrete evidence that the Sasquatch still lived on the Island.

But who knows?

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP) — Real Madrid, Spanish Soccer League champions, tied English champions Manchester United 2-2 tonight and qualified for the final of the European Cup against Fiorentina of Italy.

The Spaniards previously defeated Manchester 3-1 in Madrid and won on a 5-3 aggregate goals basis. The match was decided on total goals in the home and away matches.

A sell-out crowd of 62,000 cheered wildly every Manchester move, but the Spanish team always had the edge when it came to craft and brilliant ball control.

The second half was watched with an estimated 6,000,000 fans watching the play.

Manchester's defeat ruined its chances of the unique treble of success in English League and cup and European Cup competitions.

Manchester already had won the English League championship for the second straight year and is due to meet Aston Villa in the English Cup final May 4 at Wembley Stadium.

Three Mill Tax Hike in Oak Bay; Salary Boosts, Drainage Blamed

Oak Bay's 4,200 home owners of storm sewers for drainage, school costs, including increased salaries, and recent increases in municipal employees.

This jumps the rate to 31.95 mills on their 1957 taxes. It was learned today.

Biggest project which accounts for 1.33 mills is extensive construction of drains at an estimated cost of $36,000. School costs will account for about one-half mill and the difference will go towards municipal costs, including purchase of new equipment.

Tenders were opened Wednesday for construction of the new police station which will be included in expansion to the fire hall.

2 Victoria Daily Times THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1957

Seven bids were received. Lowest was from Parfitt Construction Co. Ltd. for $39,256, while the others ranged up to $49,448.

Decision on awarding of the contract will be made at a special council meeting Friday at 5:30 p.m.

U.K. ARMS JETS WITH MISSILES

Guided Rockets New Armament

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain, today announced plans to equip high-flying multi-jet bombers with a guided rocket missile as the foundation for many years to come of the nation's war deterrent power.

"Encouraging progress" was also disclosed on development of two different types of anti-aircraft missiles to be fired from fighter planes and on anti-aircraft rockets to be fired from the ground.

Details of Britain's air defences, newly streamlined under an economy plan based on quality instead of quantity, were issued today in a memorandum attached to the annual financial estimates for the RAF.

The memorandum notes that preparations are well under way for Britain's forthcoming H-bomb tests in the South Pacific Christmas Island area, in which the air force will make a "leading contribution."

Reports have indicated that the test device will be dropped from a high-flying Valiant jet bomber.

STOCK BOMBS

The memorandum says Britain's stocks of nuclear weapons are increasing.

The RAF's ability to deliver a nuclear weapon also is reported increasing. The memorandum notes that four types of multi-jet bombers are in operational service: The Valiant, the Vulcan and the Victor, all powered by four jet engines, and the twin-jet Canberra.

"The first aim of our defence policy is, in conjunction with our allies, to prevent global war," it says. "Achievement of this aim will continue to depend primarily upon capacity for nuclear retaliation."

"The V-bombers will be progressively developed and improved marks (models) will be introduced which will carry a powered, guided bomb. Thus they will form for many years the foundation of our deterrent power."

NO DETAILS

The memorandum gives no details of the "powered, guided bomb" but speculative reports suggest it might be an unmanned rocket fitted with an atomic warhead and carried in the belly of a manned bomber.

When target range is reached, the rocket bomb would be guided to the target electronically.

The net total air expense estimated for 1957-58 was given as $487,650,000, about two per cent up on the previous year.

Rains and the spring runoff from a heavy late March snowfall sent rivers and streams spilling over their banks in the Tisdale-Melfort region.

Tisdale, a town of 2,000, 100 miles southeast of Prince Albert, was completely surrounded by water as the Doghide River spread into a lake one-half mile wide and two miles long and rose two feet above the bridge. Heavy fog cut visibility to 400 yards Wednesday and highways out of the town were washed out or barely passable.

At Melfort, 75 miles southeast of Prince Albert, residents battled to save the town dam, source of their domestic water supply. A crew of 60 men, including reserve army and firemen, stood by to refill sandbags as water swept 500 feet across the top of the dam and ran four inches deep.

Valparaiso, a community of 75 six miles west of Tisdale, was completely cut off as water from the Hanging High River forced four families to flee their homes. Water poured from the river across a half mile of open land into the village and washed out the CPR tracks, which were left hanging in mid-air.

Families also were evacuated from their homes at Leacock, 15 miles north of Tisdale, another isolated community.

BRIDGES OUT

At Kamsack, 200 miles north-east of Regina, the Assiniboine River and the Whitesand River, a swift-flowing tributary, rose steadily, posing another flood threat. The Assiniboine rose 11 inches in a 24-hour period.

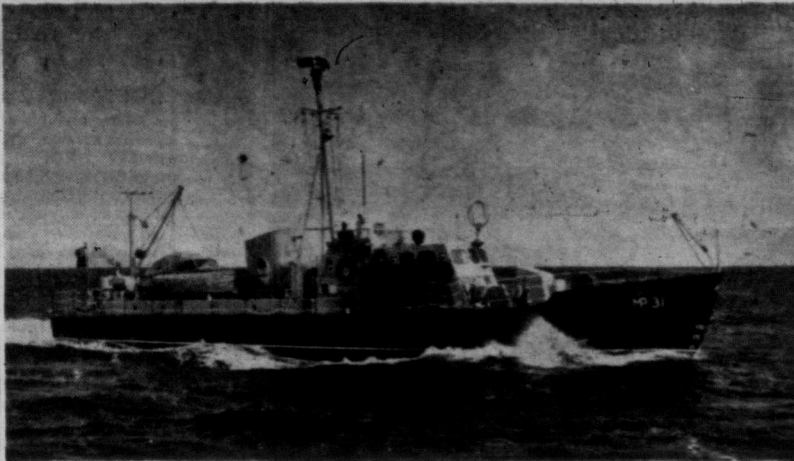

The Saskatchewan highways department reported at least two bridges out and water on highway grades in many places. Sections of eight highways were listed as impassable.

Trains ran five hours late after a washout in the CPR line from Tisdale north to Nipawin was repaired. The CNR line was washed out west of Tisdale at Eldersley.

SLIDE BLOCKS PGE
NORTH VANCOUVER—Rail traffic on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway was halted Wednesday by an earth slide about 25 miles north of Vancouver.

Push-Button Control Real Sharp On RCMP's 'Floating Detachment'

Smooth!

That's the RCMP's Victoria, the force's newest and largest addition to its west coast fleet.

Navy-designed, the 92-foot patrol boat accepted recently by the RCMP slipped out of its base at HMC Dockyard Wednesday afternoon in a demonstration run for the press.

With an all-steel hull, a 166-beam and 1,200 horsepower in her two turbo-charged diesel engines, she looked and acted like a sleek greyhound as she zipped through the water.

FAST TURN

"She's highly manoeuvrable," said her chief engineer Cpl. A. S. Connolly. "She can turn 360 degrees in 30 seconds."

To prove it, she was sent through a high-speed full-circle turn around what seemed a large-sized dime, that took the breath away.

Although undisclosed, her top speed is better than 15 knots. Cruising range is about 2,500 miles and she could stay at sea two weeks without refuelling, said her veteran skipper, S-Sgt. F. H. Brooksbank.

"She's a floating detachment," commented Supt. C. B. Macdonell, administrative officer of "E" division which includes the marine branch.

Sleeping accommodation is for 14 providing berths for two passengers in addition to the crew of 12. A galley, showers and laundry provide the amenities of life for the crew.

"In case of hostilities she could be turned over to the navy immediately because she's built like a navy craft," he said.

With no open portholes below deck and air conditioning throughout, it appeared she could easily be fitted out to "seal up" during operations in radio-active areas.

Packed with about 30 pieces of electronic equipment ranging from gyro compass to echosounder, her wheelhouse bristles with dials, gauges and levers.

PUSH-BUTTON

One feature is push-button control of her engines in the wheelhouse. A set of buttons which control the engines by air connections is used for berthing quickly and easily.

A small propeller jutting out beneath her hull activates a mechanism that registers her speed automatically. Another apparatus tells the observer at a glance how far she's travelled. The Victoria will be used for regular police patrols and "preventive service" in connection with the Customs Act. A 25-foot fibreglas speedboat capable of doing 35 knots is carried aft.

Typical runs will take the patrol boat from her base in Victoria to Prince Rupert and points along the coast. When put into service, expected in about a fortnight, she will bring the west coast fleet complement to 11 craft.

The Hebrides became part of the Kingdom of Scotland in 1266, when they were ceded by Magnus of Norway.

St. Laurent Retirement 'Nonsense'

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times-Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Prime Minister St. Laurent has made it clear in statements to the press in recent months that he has no intention of retiring for several years. He is enjoying excellent health and has no plans for retiring after the election.

Speaking at Renfrew, Ont., Wednesday night, a Progressive Conservative, Kenneth Binks from Ottawa, claimed that he had heard a Liberal leadership convention will be held in Ottawa Oct. 23-26 to choose a successor to the prime minister.

"This is absolute rubbish," Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, minister of citizenship and immigration, snorted when asked for comment.

Officials of the National Liberal Federation at Ottawa said that it was obvious that the Conservatives were launching a campaign to picture Mr. St. Laurent as a "doddering old man." They described as "nonsense" the suggestion that a leadership convention was being planned by the Liberals.

Prime Minister St. Laurent was not immediately available for comment.

Crackdown in the Schools

TEACHERS OF BRITISH Columbia want more authority to discipline unsatisfactory and trouble-making students. They have made their position plain at the B.C. Teachers' Federation convention in Vancouver.

Too many indolent young people are warming seats in schools, they say, disturbing classes, lowering morale and challenging reasonable authority in and outside the educational system. The teachers believe the profession's hands should be strengthened to deal with them and expulsion made a more effective instrument to that end.

As reports have disclosed in this city and elsewhere, the teachers are justified in their position.

It is not surprising that the federation should have announced this stand a day or so after an analogous statement from a university spokesman.

In Victoria, William J. Bartz, bursar at Idaho State University told the Western Association of College and University Business Officers that "serious overcrowding will develop over the next few years unless the entry of students is limited by their ability and aptitude. . . . The crucial issue is whether we should accept all students wanting university education, or admit only those of proven ability."

There is a parallel between the movement among elementary and secondary school teachers at the Vancouver convention and the opinion of the university spokesman here. Both deal with the results of what seemed to be an excellent principle: that every child should have as broad an opportunity as possible to go as high in education as he or she can. The principle is excellent, but it can be seriously injured if too many young people take the opportunity without showing a corresponding sense of responsibility.

There is, of course, a difference in the two attitudes. The B.C. teachers are concerned primarily with discipline. The university interests are troubled by a problem of overcrowding. But both are faced by a common conclusion: In the schools and in the universities, too many young people are occupying space to which they have failed to prove their right.

It should be understood at the outset that this criticism does not apply to the majority of students either in elementary schools or in higher classes. It does, most emphatically, apply to a minority that is increasing to a point dangerous to the whole educational system.

There are, of course, many arguments against a return to the old highly-selective practice of failing out less intellectual youngsters in the school system. To a degree they are being failed out now. Moreover, as far as British Columbia is concerned, students may only enter college or university if they pass the prescribed entrance courses. That means a substantial degree of selection in the calibre of young people who go on to higher education. But perhaps standards of selection should be higher.

At all events, teachers and university people have emphasized the point that neither want the drones or the hoodlums. If apparently satisfactory students develop into drones or hoodlums during their school lives, the teachers want and should have authority to deal with them.

Whether or not the general public is interested in the behaviour patterns displayed by some pupils, the public, as the tax-paying body, should have some concern for the costs education thrusts upon it. As long as discipline is flouted and laziness permitted in the class, a lot of that tax money is being wasted.

If only for the most material considerations, the public should support the teachers and university spokesmen.

Small Step in a Big Problem

GROWING CONCERN ABOUT the new danger of cumulative atomic radiation is causing the world to watch the current nuclear disarmament conference in London with more than usual interest. The negotiations have been going on for many weeks with no real agreement in sight. But the comments of Mr. Harold Stassen, the United States representative at the talks—which also include Russia, Britain, France and Canada—keep hope alive.

These, says Mr. Stassen, are "the most serious negotiations on the reduction and control of armament that have ever been held." This has been interpreted as an indication that Russia is showing more interest in reaching an agreement than heretofore.

An over-all disarmament plan, particularly of atomic weapons, is of course the only ultimate hope for world security. But to this major consideration has been added another with equally serious implications. That is the increasing hazard seen by experts in the production of radioactive dust through nuclear tests.

The scientists are not unanimous on the matter; some say that the level of atomic pollution is still far below the danger point. But it appears to be a matter of timing rather than of fact. Sooner or later, if the effect is allowed to grow, the danger point must be reached.

With a large number of nuclear tests now behind it, including five in the past few weeks, Russia is believed preparing to call for a temporary halt in such experiments. Britain has nuclear tests scheduled for the near future and the Government has rejected proposals that they be abandoned. The argument goes like this: Britain's new attitude to war is that it would be almost impossible to survive a nuclear attack. National security therefore depends on avoiding a war rather than fighting one. War can best be avoided by deterring potential aggressors. Possession of the hydrogen bomb is necessary as a deterrent. Therefore Britain must pursue its experiments until full nuclear strength is reached.

With this approach, however, Britain is still ready to limit and eventually to ban atomic explosions. Following the Bermuda meeting both Britain and the United States proposed to report all tests in advance to the United Nations and to seek, with Russia, a mutual agreement on atomic restrictions. The proposal was rejected by Moscow.

The stumbling block over the years has lain in the inability of the West and Russia to reach agreement on the question of international inspection and control. The Soviet Union on several occasions has proposed atomic disarmament plans but has always refused to permit full inspection by an international agency. Without such inspection the West cannot see any workable method of disarming. Russian assurances could not be sufficiently trusted in such a life-or-death matter.

But even the Kremlin cannot ignore the warnings of cumulative danger arising from the lethal dust product of nuclear explosions. Nor can it be under any misapprehensions as to the effects of an all-out nuclear war. Obviously such a war could mean the end of all established governments—at the very least the destruction of the Soviet imperial system.

Stark necessity may in the end achieve what ideals of global co-operation have so far failed to do. Mr. Stassen's report gives hope that at least a small step is being taken in the right direction.

Labor Moves Ahead

THE UNITED AUTOMOBILE Workers of America—a union with a membership of 1.5 millions—has opened an important new chapter in the history of organized labor. It has voted to create what amounts to a "board of morals" which will act as a final court of appeal for union members charged with violating the laws of their organization.

The board will consist of private citizens without other union connections; prominent churchmen, educationists and jurists will be asked to sit on it. The union will thus have a form of supreme court to which internal problems of ethics may be submitted with the assurance that a decision free from bias will be delivered.

The results of this step—both direct and indirect—should be far-reaching. In the first place the UAW organization will immediately gain a prestige which will carry its own benefits.

Unions today have achieved a great power over the individual. Such power is vested in a comparatively few executives, and often in the hands of one man. In many cases it gives union leaders the right to say whether a man shall or shall not work at his trade.

Along with this power must go an equal responsibility among labor's elected representatives.

Now, the UAW has voluntarily subjected itself to impartial judgments on its moral conduct. By so doing it has increased its own integrity and set an example to other labor groups. It has shown a high sense of responsibility regarding the increasingly important position of labor, as well as a recognition of the duties of leadership.

A Letter from New York

A N old friend of mine, one of the most influential editors in New York, has written me a remarkable letter. Knowing Canada as well as he knows the United States, and loving both countries equally, he is appalled by the present friction between them. Well he may be. "The outburst on the Norman case," he says, "was only the culmination of a disturbing trend."

It is this man's business to read the press of Canada daily and he detects in it a growing antagonism to the American nation. What, he asks, is wrong? And where will this sort of thing lead us?

These are valid questions and they must worry every intelligent man in Canada. But if we have a real problem on our hands, we should not exaggerate it. Unfortunately a general election in Canada is bound to exaggerate it, for the time being anyway.

The temptation to play party politics with international affairs is too strong for many candidates. As my New York friend well knows, a sound bipartisan foreign policy, supported by all parties between elections, is often damaged pretty badly during elections.

The important thing, however, is not what the election candidates are saying—for they will say many things until June 10 that they will regret immediately afterwards—but what the Canadian people are thinking and what the American people are not thinking.

THE Canadian people are thinking a good deal about the United States these days. They have always thought about the United States because it is a primary factor in their national life.

The American people, on the other hand, seldom think about Canada until something goes wrong, like the Norman case. Then they are amazed to find that their neighbors have long been nourishing secret resentments under a deceptive silence.

In such circumstances the temperamental differences between the two peoples at once reveal themselves. As nations the United States is an extrovert, Canada an introvert. And neither understands the other very well.

Most Americans, having heard little of Canada, are sincerely pained to discover that for some odd reason it is outraged by the behaviour of a few politicians in Washington.

THE Americans are so accustomed to being outraged by their politicians that they have acquired a certain immunity. I suppose, to the occupational diseases of democracy. Moreover, knowing their own political system, they understand why a small minority of misguided men can create a sensation in the headlines from time to time without seriously affecting the policy of the state or the life of the ordinary citizen.

Most Canadians, living under an entirely different system, where the government is constantly under the control of the legislature, find it difficult to realize that a minor legislative organ, controlled by half a dozen fanatics, may not represent even the American Senate, much less the government and still less the nation.

WHEN Canada is convulsed by a general election and candidates are saying anything likely to win votes; when obscure local politicians strike the heroic postures of international statesmen and deliver judgments on subjects which they have never considered before; when various journalists light-heartedly play with fire; when an ex-communist like Mr. Pat Walsh is widely believed because he has usually been so wrong about everything while men of blameless record are widely suspected—why, then it is extremely difficult to know what the ordinary Canadian is thinking.

When wild men are screaming and uttering mysterious threats in Washington; when the best American newspapers simply cannot understand Canada; when their readers have not read the earlier chapters of a long story and thus are totally confused by the latest chapter—why, then it is equally difficult to know what the ordinary American is thinking.

BUT I consider it safe to tell my friend in New York that the Canadian people, while bitterly resentful of a Senate sub-committee and certainly worried by American economic penetration in this country, are not nearly so antagonistic to the American people as they may appear in the headlines and in the strident idiom of a general election.

I believe my friend when he says that the American people are generally resentful of the Washington witch hunters, friendly to Canada and shocked to find that anything is wrong on the border.

Like any Canadian who has reason to know and admire the American people—reason to know, above all, that they are so much better than the false image often painted by their politicians—I am appalled by the international damage of the Norman case. Nevertheless, I believe that in the end some good will come out of it.

ON our side of the border we have begun to learn that, in Burke's phrase, we cannot indict a nation, least of all by the false evidence of a few men.

On the American side our neighbors have begun to learn that they cannot afford to let a small minority of their politicians play ducks and drakes with their closest friend and most essential ally. It is a lesson they badly need to learn and perhaps could learn only from the shock and drama of a human tragedy.

On both sides the strains of these times should compel us to face a fact far more important than the Norman case, the Canadian election or the politics of Washington—the fact that the two nations are essential to each other and must get along together, that if they quarrel about communism the only beneficiary will be the communists, whose supreme purpose is to divide them.

Disappointed

After arriving in your fair and scenic province from the east, for what we thought would be a short visit, and seeing the many beautiful things, we decided to make our home here. But after a stay of only six months I will say that we were more than a little disappointed. Not with the many wonderful sights but with the awful and many times downright horrible way a customer gets treated and spoken to by servants of the public when making a purchase in many of the stores in this city of Victoria.

So with the sights and thoughts of beautiful scenery strong enough in our minds to offset somewhat the inconveniences that we have suffered, my wife and I are returning to Eastern Canada, where patrons are appreciated by clerks and waitresses, who are clerks and waitresses.

TWO DISILLUSIONED
EASTERN TOURISTS

Centennial Park

It seems to the writer that Victoria may have a unique opportunity to enhance its attractions as a residential and tourist town, in which respects its future is said to lie. The acquisition of the large property on Fort Street adjacent to St. Margaret's School as a Centennial Park would provide for the establishment, as funds permitted, of an auditorium and an open air swimming pool in an ideal position. The higher part of this property affords a magnificent view of the sea and mountains.

Fresh water open air swimming pools are quite common in English towns much smaller than Victoria and also on the European continent. I am not aware how usual they are in the United States and Eastern Canada.

I understand that the property in question has been bought by commercial interests but I feel confident that their co-operation could be obtained for a development of such vital importance to the future of our Capital City.

Malahat Highway

Criticism of the work being done on the Malahat, has another side to it. I travel this part of the highway often, so I am familiar with the difficulties.

There are numerous rock cuts, and some of it very hard. Automobiles, mostly for pleasure, stream over it in both directions. The work is seriously hampered and delayed, large machines and equally large trucks are continually being held up and are being moved over to accommodate the traffic. The rock cuts are so considerable that it is asking too much, in my view, to have wider or better detours, and it would be too costly.

It is not long ago that the motorist had to put up with detours much worse in our island road work. It is not long ago, also, when work was done only in short stretches, and then stopped, "the appropriation has run out," until next year. Is it not better to have it done all at once, and then have something when it is finished?

As far as the men on the job are concerned, I will say that the foremen seem always hard at the job, and so are the men doing the work. I will also say this that the foreman and his men are most obliging and courteous, although the annoyance of hundreds of automobiles must be very great.

In conclusion I feel that the West Coast Road, should have been built years ago—it was promised politically for over forty years—and it should be built now. It would relieve the up-land development of many mining prospects, and make a scenic route second to none. It should, of course, follow the West Coast to the mouth of the Alberni Canal, thence up the canal to the prosperous Alberni and the up-land. It is also easier to construct than the Malahat.

What Value a Wife?

It has always been my impression that a wife and family were a man's most valuable possession—a treasure beyond any price. But since a recent trial in this locality I have realized they are not worth much if anything at all.

If you hold a position of what is called trust your employer gives you a gun to protect his valuables and if you should shoot a thief trying to steal same you are a hero—probably get a medal for it. The punishment might not be too severe if it was your own money but if a thief enters your home under the guise of a friend and steals that which is worth more than life itself let alone money and you shoot him that's murder without any excuse or palliative whatever.

There but for the grace of God go I.
F. C. RUMSBY.

R.R. No. 2, Victoria, B.C.

Encouraging Delinquency

I have just read with amazement and alarm of the action (or lack of it) taken by the Victoria School Board in the cases of a number of students who absented themselves from school during school hours to work in a local store.

"Letter to the manager." Forsooth! Nothing at all would have been better than that. "Tends to undermine discipline and administration of the schools." That indeed is the understatement of the year. I wonder just how many principals and teachers are left standing on little but their dignity—what little is left.

This is the sort of action which can lead to juvenile delinquency and juvenile delinquency is on the increase. It increases in direct ratio to the degree which constituted authority fails to rise to its responsibilities.

Delinquency is a form of anarchy—a moral negativism which moves in to fill the vacuum left by vacated authority. Failure, as in the present case, to enforce the law is to bring contempt both for the law and those who are supposed to enforce it, and the higher the authority the greater the destructive effect.

FROM AMMAN, JORDAN By JOSEPH ALSOP

The Arab Legion, Is the Key

AS THESE words are written, the situation in this unhappy little country is again confused—this time by the sudden departure of the new chief of staff of the Arab Legion, Gen. Ali Hayari.

From Damascus, where he had gone on an alleged official mission, Gen. Hayari telephoned his resignation from the post he had just accepted. He had been extremely reluctant to take the post, because he is a fellow townsman and cousin of his predecessor, Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar. And he was apparently upset by newly ordered transfers of officers designed to insure the Arab Legion's loyalty to King Hussein.

The mixture of politics and personality in Gen. Hayari's motives is a characteristically Jordanian mixture. It makes it doubly difficult to forecast the outcome of a situation which repeatedly seems to solidify and then again deliquesces into total uncertainty.

The end may be either martial law or a final triumph of the recently defeated left-wing, pro-Egyptian groups. And the most influential single factor will be the Arab Legion, which has not yet got a permanent commanding officer.

In the midst of this uncertainty, however, it is still worth trying to distinguish the forces that are in play here, if only because the conflicting forces in this Jordanian drama in effect sum up the forces now in conflict throughout the Arab Middle East.

At the outset, then, it is clear that a sort of concealed coup d'état was attempted here on orders from Cairo. The idea was to rivet Egypt control on Jordan once and for all by reducing King Hussein to a figurehead and concentrating all real authority in the hands of Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar and the pro-Egyptian Jordanian politicians.

The fact that the initiative came from Cairo is proven by many such details as the presence in Amman of a battalion of Egyptian "newspaper men"—literally several scores of them—who fled the country the instant the attempted coup d'état failed last weekend.

It failed because the Egyptian leadership had grossly underestimated King Hussein and the Bedouin tribesmen who are loyal to him. It also failed because the real power of Gen. Abu Nuwar had been grossly overestimated, both by the Egyptians and himself.

Remarkable Contrasts

The real significance of this failure was in turn revealed by one of the more remarkable contrasts of the last stirring weekend. In the North, the Syrians threatened to come to the aid of the forces working against King Hussein. In the South, King Saud of Saudi Arabia immediately placed his own troops in Jordan under King Hussein's personal command.

This contrast neatly symbolizes the inner schism in President Nasser's grand Egyptian-led alliance. It is a split down the middle between King Saud's Arabia and King Hussein's Jordan, on the one hand, and Egypt and the Egyptian satellite, Syria, on the other hand.

Appearances are being preserved within the grand alliance. King Hussein has protested his loyalty to the alliance and its program. But the split is there, and it will become deep and final if the Egyptians cannot recover the ground they have lost here in Jordan.

Extreme Left

The cause of the split, in turn, is the reliance Egypt has placed, in both Jordan and Syria, on the extreme left-wing parties. In both countries the strongest supporters of absolute subservience to Egypt are the Communists, not numerous but active and influential, and the Baath party, both influential and strong in numbers especially among the youth.

Egyptian influence resting on this kind of support is no more attractive to King Saud than to King Hussein.

In plain terms, King Saud feels himself ultimately threatened. This is the real reason (rather than the amiability of President Eisenhower) that King Saud has lately been drawing closer both to King Hussein and King Faisal of Iraq.

Meanwhile, the left-wing parties are still very strong in Jordan and the final test here has not been reached. So you may pay your money and take your choice on the future.

This is one of the most fascinating and incredible stories ever to be told on the screen. A story of indomitable courage, humor, and the dogged determination to "carry on" under the most punishing handicaps. All done with the light-hearted understatement the British are past masters at. A real inspiration. For-trayed by the most perfectly cast Kenneth More, it provides unalloyed entertainment for the whole family. What better way to celebrate the anniversary of '61 George for Morris' than to bring them all to witness one of Britain's most outstanding films of the year. All critics rate "Excellent".

Head Shearing Just 'Wonderful'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A young housewife had her strawberry blond hair cut off Wednesday for publicity's sake—and $300.

Mrs. Patricia Smith, 24, said she thought the loss of her locks was "wonderful."

She was one of 700 women who answered a want ad to submit to a complete head clipping for a motion picture promotion stunt.

The shearing took place in the lobby of the Golden Gate Theatre showing "The Girl in the Kremlin."

Press agent Mike Vogel said: "Hollywood wanted to send up the girl who did it in the picture, but I told them 'She's been done. We'll do it ourself.'"

Vogel said a newspaper ad brought 700 answers. He interviewed 40 women and chose Mrs. Smith, "because she is the typical housewife who wishes she was doing something else."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Harry K. ("Haywire Mac") McClintock, pioneer of western radio and leader of one of the first cowboy bands, died Wednesday. He was 74.

McClintock wrote many song hits, including Big Rock Candy Mountain and the Bum Song. His radio career began in 1925 on KFRC in San Francisco.

Business Firms Aid Gallery

For the first time in the five-year history of the Art Gallery, city business firms have rallied to its support with financial assistance. It was reported at the annual meeting Wednesday.

About 50 firms have taken out sustaining memberships or made outright donations which totaled $1,400 said curator Colin Graham.

Individual donations to the gallery totaled $9,145, a great increase from the $987 received the previous year.

Also for the first time, Victoria and the three municipalities gave grants totaling $2,550.

50 NEW WORKS

Membership now stands at a record total of 944.

Mr. Graham said the gallery has accumulated almost 50 new works in the past three months, more than were collected in the previous five years.

Last year 42 exhibitions were held of which 10 were predominantly modern.

Re-elected president for his second term was Cmdr. P. F. Fairfull.

Reporting for the women's committee, Mrs. Betty McKenzie announced that in its five years, as an auxiliary to the gallery, the committee raised $7,358 for various gallery projects. Of this amount, $2,486 was raised during the past 12 months.

The retiring treasurer, Mrs. Evelyn Maynard, reported cash on hand of $2,554, with $20,000 invested in securities.

ARENA TENDERS BRING GAS FROM PRINCE GEORGE COUNCIL

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Tenders for the proposed Prince George civic arena were opened Wednesday and the figures that came out left city fathers gasping for air.

Not one of the bids was within $100,000 of the estimated cost.

Architects had decided a very nice arena could be built for $392,000. The lowest tender on their plans was for $504,000.

City council will hold a special meeting on the matter.

Ottawa Pegs Prices For Live Poultry

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today announced a price support program for fowl, a move which farm groups have been demanding for years.

The agricultural prices support board said the new floor price for fowl will be the equivalent to 23 cents a pound live-weight at Toronto for top-grade fowl five pounds and over. The floor will be in effect at all principal Canadian markets and will operate in the August-November period, usually the peak marketing season. Under the program, the government will buy all surplus fowl if market prices fall below the 23-cent floor. Current prices are around 20 cents.

Finance Minister Harris disclosed the plan at Stratford, Ont., Wednesday night. The official announcement was made by the agriculture department today. Mr. Harris said the floor price is "one more peg to keep up the farmer's income."

The government now has support programs for butter, eggs, hogs, fowl and skimmed milk.

One Year in Jail For Possessing Stolen Goods

COURTENAY — George McKnight, who pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of stolen goods, was sentenced to one year in Oakalla Prison.

He had been apprehended by Quallcum Beach RCMP for driving without a licence, when articles reported stolen from Courtenay stores were found in his car. They included nine pairs of trousers, two leather jackets, a metal pipe die, and a steam iron.

Skull Fracture Killed Driver Instantly

COURTENAY (CP)—A coroner's jury Wednesday night found William Henry Millwood, 50, died instantly of a skull fracture when thrown from his car Tuesday one and one-half miles north of Comox Road.

Millwood was thrown 15 feet in the air as his car rolled several times after passing another auto and cutting back into his own lane. He landed in a ditch on the opposite side of the road but his car remained on the asphalt.

Mrs. Mary J. Stefanik, driver of the car Millwood had passed, said he had turned into his lane so quickly the small auto swerved a few times and then rolled.

TORTURED KADAR

Stalin-Era Purger Jailed In Hungary

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary's Communist regime yesterday announced that Mihaly Farkas, notorious Stalin-era purger who tortured Premier Janos Kadar when Kadar was out of favor, has been sentenced to 16 years in prison.

Farkas apparently was convicted at a secret trial. Minister of defence and a general in the regime of former dictator Matyas Rakosi, he was the first of the old Stalinist leaders to be sentenced in Hungary.

Farkas was arrested last October, before the unsuccessful anti-Communist rebellion which brought Kadar back to power as the choice of the Russians. He remained in prison through the uprising.

Farkas, 53, a Jew, and his son Vladimir played leading roles in the prosecution in 1949-50 of other former Communist leaders whose names were "cleared" after Stalin's death. Both were accused of helping in the "investigation" of former Foreign Secretary Laszlo Rakj and Kadar, who had been interior minister before he also fell from favor during Stalin's feud with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Rakj, executed in 1949 for "Titoism," was "rehabilitated" last June and given a hero's reburial in early October. The mass demonstration at the October ceremony helped set the stage for the anti-Communist uprising.

The elder Farkas was accused of having personally tortured Kadar while the present premier was imprisoned on Titoist charges.

Police Cut Sparks Courtenay Fight

COURTENAY (CP) — Proposed cut in RCMP strength here created a hot argument between mayor and aldermen when council received a letter from the Chamber of Commerce questioning the move.

Questions on how council expected a three-man force to cover all policing requirements 24 hours a day, seven days a week, were raised by the chamber.

The cut in strength had been moved at the previous meeting of council on recommendation of Ald. Sid Williams, finance chairman, based on study of financial statistics by Mayor Geoff Browning. A saving of $3,000, approximately one tax mill, was expected from the reduction.

NONE AGREE

Ald. W. C. Moore told this week's meeting he had done "a lot of investigating" with the public, the RCMP inspector and other officers, plus members of council, and found none were in agreement with the cut.

"I lay the blame for the proposal at the feet of the mayor and the assistant commissioner in Victoria," Ald. Moore declared.

"It was done on statistics only and nobody went near the accurate sources of information. Council should rescind its earlier motion to cut the force."

Mayor Browning countered: "The Chamber of Commerce has tried to put us on the spot."

Nanaimo Slow in Selecting Memorial Centennial Project

NANAIMO — Despite progress made toward celebrating British Columbia's centennial year here, it was announced Tuesday that no specific project has been chosen as a permanent memorial.

Stan Woodson, Lions Club president, who questioned centennial committee chairman George Molecey about the project, was told there will have to be "a great number of meetings" before a decision can be made.

Celebration plans include the baking of a monster cake, honoring the Indians with the carving of special totem poles, erection of a huge electric sign on Mount Benson and recognition of some aspect of the city's history each month during the year.

725-Lb. Grizzly Killed by Logger

(From CP Dispatches)
CRANBROOK — A silver-tip grizzly bear which had prowled and looted the St. Mary's Lake area of the B.C. interior for four years will hunt no more.

Gus Kringsman, a scaler at a sawmill at the lake, shot it dead with a .303 rifle in the best hunting tradition.

As the giant beast tried to force his way into a shed where Kringsman had stored beaver pelts, Kringsman moved to within 10 feet of the bear and holding a flashlight on the roaring grizzly, fired the rifle.

Brought into Cranbrook, 40 miles east of the lake, the bear pushed the scales to 725 pounds. Its skull will be measured for entry among international records.

The grizzly had ranged the Purcell Mountains, in the south-eastern corner of B.C., for four years. His rampaging was reported for 80 miles between St. Mary's Lake and Crawford Bay. He damaged parked cars, looted camps and frightened solitary dwellers throughout the area.

MEMORIAL SERVICES
VANCOUVER — Memorial services will be held Friday for William D. Dix, general sales manager of Neon Products and secretary and director of B.C. Bearing Engineers Ltd., who was drowned Feb. 16 in a boating accident that also claimed the life of Vancouver Sun assistant publisher Sam Cromie.

The two men were testing a 12-foot pleasure craft at Horse-shoe Bay when the accident occurred. Mr. Cromie's body was found near Merry Island. Mr. Dix's body was not recovered.

DRASTIC DOG LAW
CHILLIWACK — A drastic dog by-law was approved Wednesday by Chilliwack township council.

Owners must now keep their dogs on their property or both the dog and owner face stiff penalties.

The SPCA will charge $3 for picking up all stray dogs. In addition, the owner faces prosecution and a fine of up to $50. The dog will be kept at a pound and for at least two days the owner may claim his dog there. The third day, the municipality has the right to sell the dog and the fourth day it will be destroyed.

The by-law was introduced following complaints concerning dogs damaging property and biting children.

BUDGET APPROVED
KAMLOOPS — City council gave approval Wednesday to a $1,200,000 budget for 1957.

General expenditures and administration take $259,313, up $6,513 from last year, while school costs increased by $69,154 to $45,445.

POLICE GETTING CRAMPED
VANCOUVER — Chief Constable George Archer told the administration board Wednesday that Vancouver will need additional police station facilities within the next five years.

He said an addition, if approved, would be built on the site of the old police station, adjacent to the present building.

PRISONERS RECAPTURED
VANCOUVER — Two men escaped custody briefly Wednesday as they were being unloaded from an RCMP van at the Vancouver courthouse.

The two were recaptured after a 10-minute chase across the courthouse lawn to the opposite side of Georgia Street.

The men were scheduled to appear before the B.C. Court of Appeal.

William Cadger, 25, was appealing conviction and a four-year term for armed robbery and Crawford Joranson, 30, was appealing a two-year term for illegally possessing a gun.

COME BACK LITTLE FLOWER

12-Year-Old Judy Forlorn As Pet Skunk Goes AWOL

Some of the joy of spring has vanished for "the little girl with the skunk," as she refers to herself.

Twelve-year-old Judy Rush-ton, 1104 Topaz, who has an eccentric taste in pets and, fortunately, tolerant parents, had a skunk, Flower by name.

Until five days ago, that is. Then Flower disappeared and it won't be easy to trace him by his scent since Flower had been deodorized.

Judy, who in her time has made pets of snakes, mice and other un-little-girlish objects of affection, bought Flower on a visit to New Westminster about a year ago.

She brought him home and he slept in her bed until "he got too noisy."

Judy explained that getting "too noisy" meant:

"Well, he bit our dog Mandy's tail and scratched at the door to get out at all hours of the night."

So Flower was relegated to a comfortable but cage-like box under the back steps. Flower promptly faded and left Judy forlorn.

So if you happen to see an overlong (28") stream-lined cat with two white stripes down his back who probably won't answer to the name of mephitis mephitis (which he should because that's his zoological title) don't sic your dog on him nor run away holding your nose.

Just gather him up gently and take him back to Judy at 1104 Topaz. Better wear gloves, though, skunks have long claws.

CONTRACT BREACH

Perrin May Sue NHLers

Claims Habs, Leafs Must Make Up Losses

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Free Press says general manager Jack Perrin of Winnipeg Warriors may consider suing Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, who for the last two years have had a working agreement with the Western Hockey League club.

The newspaper quotes Perrin as saying Wednesday night in a telephone interview from Toronto, where he went to discuss future plans with Leafs, that inadequate arrangements could lead to a court case.

The newspaper reports Perrin said: "The Warriors showed a heavy financial loss for the 1956-57 season because of a breach of contract by the two NHL teams. Unless the loss is made good in some way I will consider suing."

CONFERS WITH SMYTHE

The Free Press says Perrin has had two meetings with Conn Smythe, president of the Toronto Maple Leafs, but it is not known whether Winnipeg would again be associated with the Leafs.

The newspaper quotes Perrin as saying: "Mr. Smythe told me that he could not declare his position one way or another until such time as the present contract with Montreal and Toronto — expires at the end of May."

However, Perrin is further quoted as saying he gathered that the Toronto organization is more than anxious to maintain a relationship with the Warriors.

Warriors won the WHL championship and the Edinburgh Cup in their first season 1955-56, but this season ended last in the WHL's prairie division.

City Swim Team Enters PNW Gala

The gala circuit moves into full swing for city swimmers this weekend when 16 members of the YMCA Swimming Club travel to Boise, Idaho, for the annual Pacific Northwest women's championships Saturday. Competing in three classes, under 17, under 15 and under 13, the young ladies will be out to retain the trophy they won in last year's gala in Bremerton against 16 cities from Western United States and Canada.

Scoring Crown?---Maybe---Get Rid of That?---Certainly

High-scoring Don Sherry will be aiming that potent stick at his former Nanaimo Timbermen mates when he makes his first appearance with Victoria Shamrocks in Intercity Lacrosse League opener at Memorial Arena Friday. But fleet forward shows only lukewarm interest as he points his accurate weapon at league scoring crown. His main interest is helping Rocks win games. At right, coach Whitey Severson

Sherry Real Happy--- And So Are New Mates

It took five years, but George James Sherry is finally going to make it Friday night.

Sherry, whose needle-sharp stickwork helped prod Nanaimo Timbermen to the Mann Cup lacrosse championship last year, has "always wanted to play with the Shamrocks since I was a junior here."

That was in 1952 when Don (it's just a nickname) was attending Normal School and scampering around with the Oak Bay Junior club. Friday, the 22-year-old Nanaimo speed merchant makes his first official appearance in the Irish green as Victoria Shamrocks usher in a new Intercity Lacrosse League season against the Timbermen at Memorial Arena.

"I think it's going to be a lot more fun playing on a line with Jack Bionda," he said, as the Rocks wound up their pre-season training chores Wednesday night.

"He'll draw a lot of attention away from me."

As for his chances of winning the league scoring crown, taken last year by his linemate, Bobby Allan: "I haven't thought about it. I'll just take my shots when they come and hope they go in the net. You have to be lucky to win a scoring championship."

Sherry, who finishes his fourth year at University of B.C. and will be looking for a place to stay in Victoria in a couple of weeks, wasn't the only happy Shamrock Wednesday night. The whole Irish camp was brightened by the sight of Sherry in a Victoria uniform and the news that Bionda is due to arrive Friday morning.

Coach Whitey Severson announced that Bionda and Sherry would team up on a forward line centred by Ontario import Jack Howse. "It should be a great line," Severson beamed. "Both Bionda and Sherry can score those big goals and both can set up plays. And Howse is a real digger."

140 GOALS
"Don beat us more than any other player in the league last season and his playmaking made Allan. Now we have the same kind of combination in Bionda and Sherry. They should be good for 70 goals each."

"And," he added, "we're hoping to get more goals from our defence than in the past. Especially since Jackie Northup is moving back to defence."

Although Bob Dobbie and Don Gear are playing with Fergus in the Ontario intermediate hockey final and are not expected until late next week, Severson still had a problem selecting the remainder of Friday's starting lineup from his crowded roster. And with several players fighting for positions, he expects to make several line-up shuffles in the early part of the season.

He will have rugged Bert Bertola operating between Preece Bradshaw and Alan Gill on his second line, and Ed Kowalyk pivoting for Al Davies and Art Green Jr., on the third unit. If Kowalyk is unable to play, Green will move to centre and Longpre will take over on the wing.

On defence, it will be Bill Bamford and Jack Thompson forming one combination, and Lew Landess and Northup making up the other pair in front of goalie George Johnston.

CAN END SERIES

Regals Oozing Optimism

BRANDON (CP)—Brandon Regals, hoping to end the Western Hockey League best-of-seven final series here tonight, are exhibiting plenty of confidence.

Brandon leads New Westminster Royals in the series 3-0. The WHL winner meets Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League in the best-of-nine Edinburgh Cup finals.

Coach Don "Bones" Raleigh said, "We're certainly going to try and wrap it up tonight. But we can't afford to relax now and to take it four straight we must play sharp hockey."

Raleigh would not give a definite answer on possible player changes until he meets with his players. "I had been contemplating dressing Bob Chorley in my place for one game but that is unlikely because I do not like breaking a winning combination. However, this is a democratic club and I'll wait and see what my players think about it."

GOT THE BREAKS

Lay Haycoe, New Westminster coach, had no alibi for the series starting and said all three games could have gone either way but Brandon had the breaks.

"But then, a good coach makes his own breaks," he said. Haycoe said he had no player changes, commenting "What choice have I got?"

If Regals win tonight they will leave Friday morning by train for Quebec. The series would open Sunday afternoon at Quebec.

A victory for the Royals would extend the WHL series to Saturday when a fifth game would be played here.

Harold Beaming After KO Win In First TV Bout

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UP)—Harold Games, the New England featherweight champion, was mightily pleased today with his knockout victory over Bobby Rogers of Chicago in his first nationally-televised fight.

"I wanted to win and I wanted to look good," the popular Providence scrapper said after dropping Rogers for the full count at 1:54 of the ninth round Wednesday before 1,363 hometown fans.

Hearts have been broken and muscles tortured by the hilly layout at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Even under ideal conditions, an 18-hole trip around the cleverly laid-out course tosses up a demanding challenge. Its long holes penalize the short hitter. Narrow fairways punish the inaccurate. Tricky rolls on the greens fray the nerves and the up-and-down route robs the unconditioned of energy.

Sunday, semifinalists in the Times Open Championships will be tackling the course at its toughest during their 36-hole matches. Club officials have announced that back tees will be used on all holes, stretching the course to its full 6,485 yards—3,305 on the first nine, and 3,180 on the back nine—and greens will be mowed early Sunday morning.

Conditions should have the least effect on Joe Briggs, who will be playing over his home course. But the smooth swinger who crushed clubmate Roy Chappell in last Sunday's quarter-finals will be up against

VISITORS CHALLENGING

Harv, Roger Have Company

The B.C. Open Junior Badminton Championships moved into their quarter-finals today at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club with Harvey Hurd and Roger Lindal moving fast towards their expected clash in Friday's finals.

But they are being chased hard by a pair of outsiders who have given evidence that they have designs on Lindal's crown.

Defending men's singles champion Lindal took Vancouver's Wayne MacDonell in straight games 15-8, 15-7 while Hurd was out-blasting John McMillan 15-3, 15-1.

The unexpected happened when Darrell Knott, of Kere-meos, whipped Victoria's Warren Bell, fourth-seeded player in the province, in two sets, 15-9, 15-0. His win caused a fast reshuffle of ratings among the competing shuttlers and gave the favorites something to think about.

Third-seeded Mel Chapman of Victoria, served notice on the favorites when he dumped Brian Hare of Vancouver, 15-0, 15-15 in the opening round of play.

In the under-18 event among the girls, third-seeded Marjorie MacPallane caused eyes to open when she dropped her match to unheralded Sharon Campbell of Rutland 11-8, 11-3.

Diana Parsons, defending champion in the class, drew a bye while Jane Lee, under-16 champion last year, beat L. Douglall 12-2, 11-6.

Sharon Whittaker, downed D. Haley 11-2, 11-3 with little trouble.

Quarter-finals in all 12 events were scheduled today with semi-finals slated for Friday afternoon and finals Friday night.

Falkirk Wins Scottish Cup

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A goal scored by inside-left Eddie Morgan in the 11th minute of overtime gave Falkirk a 2-1 victory over Kilmarnock Wednesday night in the replay of the Scottish Soccer Cup final at Hampden Park.

It was Falkirk's first win of the trophy since they beat Raith Rovers 2-0 in the 1913 final.

A crowd of about 80,000 saw a hard match which rarely reached a high standard although Falkirk always looked slightly better and deserved their 1-0 half-time lead.

This goal was scored by centre-forward George Merchant in the 24th minute when he headed through a high cross by outside-right Jimmy Murray.

BAYS TO MEET KATS IN FINAL

Oak Bay Wanderers, Victoria first division rugby champions, make a bid for the Rounsfell Cup and the B.C. crown at Vancouver Sunday.

Opposing the Victoria club will be Vancouver Kats, who defeated Victoria JBAA in the provincial final last year.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

Birds are chirping, lawn mowers are clattering and getting up in the morning becomes less of a chore every day (it says here).

The point is, that wretched winter is a thing of the past and 'tis time to think of summer sports. Hereabouts, that is an open invitation to hunker down on a cracker-box for lengthy dissertations on lacrosse, baseball and golf.

But to Victoria's solidly-entrenched platoon of cricket buffs, the time has come to speak of balls and wickets, silly mid-offs and boundary sixes.

And so it is that at this point, we cut it off sharply and withdraw to a discreet distance while a real cricket expert, Gerald S. Rees, writes of his love affair with The Game.

The pitch is yours, Mr. Rees. Bowl away.

Springtime in the Rockies, far away and here too under rain-washed skies on Pacific's salty doorstep as April dries her lovely tears. Under a beneficent sun, eggs are warm in their high secret places, and with a million buds on every corner, one faintly hears "The Call of the Open Road."

Island cricketers responsibly turn fond thoughts towards the trounce-trundle of the King of Games—an honorable and ancient pastime. "Playing since 1850" says sign at Beacon Hill Park; played in the realm of Angle-land for hundreds of years with first recorded match, A.D. 1700, and Test Matches since 1861.

Cricket, cradled at BroadHalfpenny near Hampshire's Hambleton, is a national institution in the little Island under the North Star and has a continuity of purpose and tradition that mirrors much of its native habitat. Its atmosphere of deceptive slowness and a dignified reserve with an unquestioned recognition of authority is as successful in its way as the invective hurled at hockey and baseball both here and in the U.S.A.

Hither and Yon in Leisurely Rythm

The credo of team and fair play—win, lose or draw—informs and sometimes transcends the rules; The Marylebone Cricket Club controls the game, lock, stock and barrel, wherever the Flag flies, from Sussex to Sydney, Victoria to Cape-town, and from Windmill Down to the West Indies.

"A little bit of England" will soon be seen bordering our playing fields as the "colony" (pardon the word!) of elderly connoisseurs foregather in deep content full of cricket lore and John Wisden's Almanack. They keep an alert eye on score-board and white-coated umpires whose job is all work and no play; they scan every move of the players in chaste flannels (and kaleidoscopic caps) moving hither and yon in a fluid and leisurely rhythm.

Between ovals, the years are rolled back (Oh, the paths of far-gone yesterdays!) and air is rife with cackles of the Golden Age when the "Jolly old Emphah" was at its zenith, buses ran from the Bank to Mandalay, and Queen Victoria ruled her vast realms with a grandmotherly affection.

Historic names of the fine flower of cricket "greats" are batted to and fro with ever a mention of the fabulous All-Rounder W. G. Grace, a genial bloke with some pet peeves, massive, even monumental. His square black beard dominated the scene till it was well flecked with silver-grey. Mayhap when day is done and dusk is nigh, these shadowy stalwarts on their Elysian Fields lean across the misty ramparts looking down on the fair green heart of the little land they had once loved and served so well on its sunlit greenwards.

There's Nowt Like a Game of Cricket

Cricket relaxes the traditional taciturnity—or inherent shyness attributed to the English-born; viewing a "match through a long summer's afternoon (and with the sacrosanct interval for "tea-time") and "With run-stealers flickering to and fro, and fro—" is a mellowing affair, so this rather ancient type finds who in his day was an unpredictable weaver of the willow—a bottom drawer player scoring only the odd run with yokel haymakers when brutal ball spun in his direction!

It is not, of course, everybody's cup of tea, but because it is an integral part of the Victorian summer scene, the writer offers this informal introduction to the season; his pen may be no mightier than his bat, but this inconsequential vignette may serve to gently swing apart the gateway of the years for many Island lovers of Willow the King.

Good battin', my masters, with the best of bowlin' and a taut field.

As Yorkshireman George Hirst was wont to say—"There's nowt like a game of cricket, lad."

Sal's Neck Stiff, Red After Rigney Remarks

BROOKLYN (AP)—Sal Maglie reported to Ebbets Field Wednesday night with a stiff neck and hurt feelings. The stiff neck forced the veteran Brooklyn righthander to miss his scheduled pitching turn against New York Giants, but that did not bother him as much as remarks made by Bill Rigney, the Giants manager. "Imagine the nerve of that Rigney," Maglie fumed in the Dodgers clubhouse before the game. "Accusing me of deliberately throwing at Willie Mays. That's a damn lie. I never threw at Willie. Maybe I brushed him back with a high hard one under the chin once in a while but I never tried to flatten him. I wouldn't do a thing like that to Willie." A local newspaper had carried a story quoting Rigney as saying: "If that old bird knocks Willie down tonight, every one of the Dodger players will find themselves flat on their backs." "You can tell Rigney for me he's full of hot air," Maglie snorted. "I wouldn't mind taking him up on it just to make him put up or shut up. But then I never have and never intend to throw at Mays. Heck, why would I want to throw at a grand kid like Willie?"

Flin Flon Weather Forecast: Chilly With Possible Storm

FLIN FLON, Man. (BUP)—Manager-coach Sam Pollock and his Ottawa Canadiens were expected to receive a chilly reception when they arrived here today for the Memorial Cup junior hockey final with the Flin Flon Bombers.

Pollock has set a precedent for the playoffs by failing to arrive in time for the scheduled opening game Wednesday night. The final will not get under way until Friday night.

Flin Flon's hockey fans also were up in arms over criticism levelled at the facilities in the northern Manitoba mining town.

Pollock's actions in cooling his heels in Winnipeg since Monday and disobeying a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association order to leave that city on Tuesday brought angry words from Gordon Jukes, vice-president of the CAHA.

Jukes said here that disciplinary action will be taken against Ottawa and the team could be suspended from amateur competition next season.

"I'll have plenty to say at the next CAHA meeting," Jukes said. "From now on the CAHA will designate what mode of travel hockey clubs will use, or they can stay out of playoffs."

Pollock sits in Winnipeg and makes bluffs to the papers about conditions before he has even seen this town. He accuses the CAHA of doing nothing to take care of arrangements, yet he never asked for any help saying he would do it all himself.

"They'll never do this to me again as long as I am with the CAHA. And from now on, Pollock is going to play when we want him to and do as we say or he will pack up his team and go right back east."

The Ottawa club was told to catch a train out of Winnipeg on Tuesday but instead attempted to charter a plane. They made arrangements for a flight on Wednesday, but all planes out of Winnipeg were grounded due to weather and Jukes ordered the Canadiens to leave by train at noon.

Flanagan Whips 'Kid'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Del Flanagan, climbing back into the upper ranks of welterweights, befuddled former champion Kid Gavilan for an easy decision Wednesday night in a 10-rounder that drew a record Minnesota fight gate of $3,796.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Cleveland Barons, winners of the American Hockey League's Calder Cup playoffs, will split up 38 per cent of the total playoff pool of $38,412.30—one of the biggest in years.

Inman Leader In Derby Open; Leonard Trails

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Walker Inman, Jr., bucked leg-tiring hills and an early spring growth of unruly Kentucky grass today to protect a one-stroke lead in the second round of the $30,000 Kentucky Derby Open Golf Tournament.

Bill Casper, Jr., was one shot behind Inman at 68.

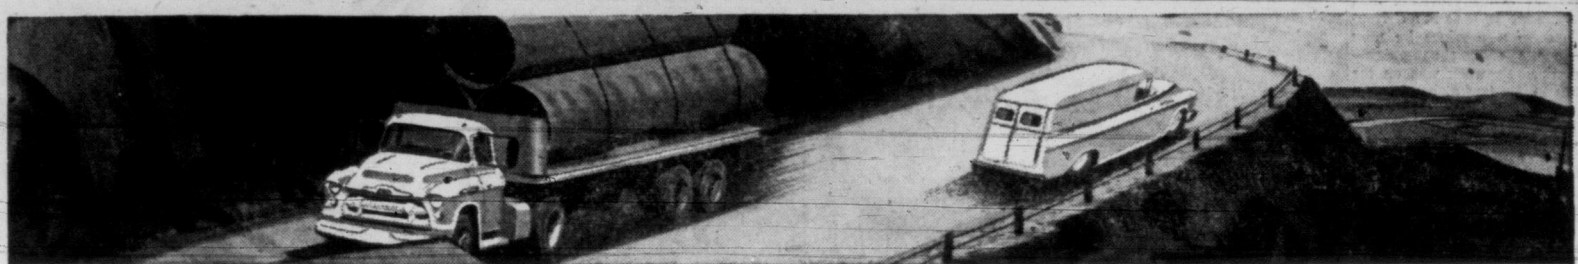

Victoria Daily Times 11 THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1957

Bunched in a three-way tie behind the two were Peter Thomson, 28-year-old Aussie; Bobby Maxwell of Abilene, Tex.; and veteran Jack Fleck of Rochester, Mich., at 69.

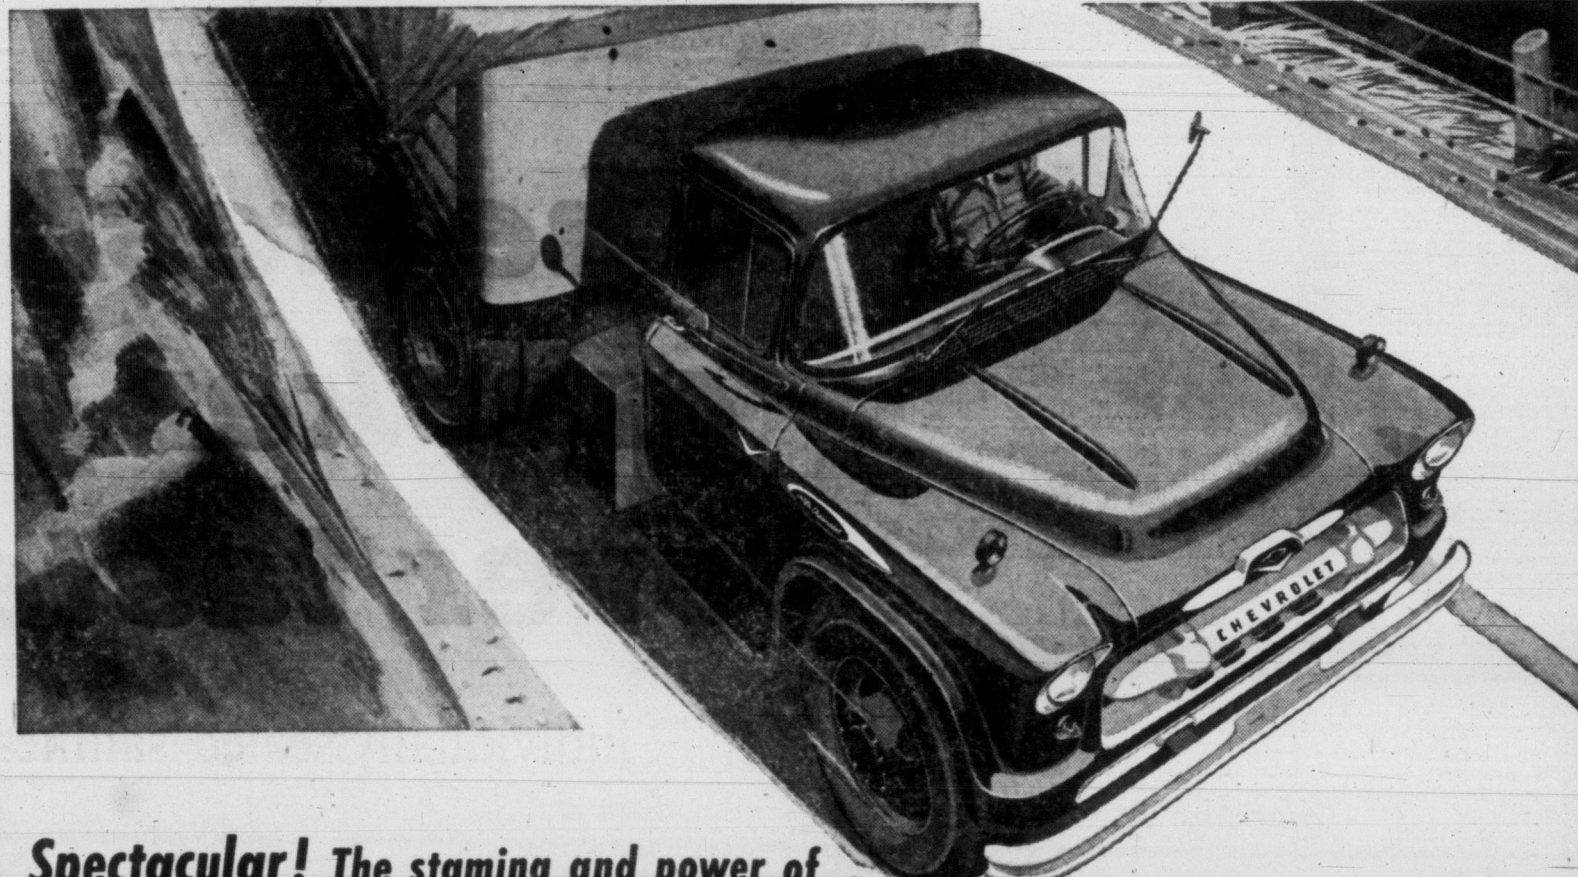

Al Balding of Islington, Ont., led the Canadian contingent with a 73 made up of 36 and 37 Wednesday. Stan Leonard of Vancouver had a pair of 37s for 74 and Gerry Kesselring of Toronto carded 37-39-76.

Tory Chief Starts Big Push Tonight At Toronto Rally

TORONTO (CP)—John Diefenbaker jumps into his full-scale election campaign tonight with a major speech here keynoting the Progressive Conservative party's platform for the June 10 vote. His political rally at Massey Hall will launch a 6½-week cross-country tour aimed at boosting his party's strength in the Commons.

At Parliament's dissolution two weeks ago the Conservatives had 50 of the 265 house seats, compared with 168 held by Liberals.

The coming campaign, however, will be only an intensification of what the 61-year-old Mr. Diefenbaker has been doing since he won the party leadership in December following Hon. George Drew's resignation.

In the last four months he has stumped in every province. Just before Easter he visited Newfoundland—a province he may miss in the coming campaign—and earlier this week was on the hustings in his Saskatchewan constituency of Prince Albert.

POLICY OUTLINED

Thus his speech tonight is expected to unveil little beyond those points he has already hammered at in numerous speeches.

As major points he will:

1. Hit hard at high taxes and heavy government spending.
2. Promise a more vigorous fight against inflation, which he has called the major domestic issue.
3. Offer a farm policy based on partial parity prices and improved marketing methods.
4. Accuse the Liberal government of squeezing the provinces and of centralizing powers under tax-sharing agreements.
5. Present a "Canada first" program of encouragement for the formation of new industries to process—rather than export—Canada's raw materials.
6. Claim the government has subverted parliamentary rights and freedoms, especially in last year's bitter pipeline debate.

This election is critical for the Conservatives, who have been out of power for 22 years with five consecutive general election losses to the Liberals.

One major problem has been the CCF and Social Credit parties, strong in the Western provinces. Mr. Diefenbaker has said a top priority must be to restore the two-party system in Canada.

At the last election in 1953, the Conservatives got 31.4 per cent of the popular vote, compared with 49.6 per cent for the Liberals and 19 per cent for other parties. For the Conservatives, this was an improvement over the two previous elections: In 1949 they received 29.8 per cent of the popular vote and in 1945 only 27.7 per cent—a record low.

Mr. Diefenbaker said recently: "Defeat 40 Liberals and that party will be in the minority in Parliament."

At the last unofficial count, his party had 173 candidates nominated, slightly more than the Liberals. Both parties are expected to contest all 265 seats at stake, with one or two possible exceptions. The CCF has said it is aiming at putting up 200 candidates and Social Credit, making a big bid in Eastern Canada, has said it hopes to have more than 150. Mr. Diefenbaker's campaign is expected to take him coast-to-coast twice, including about two weeks in Western Canada.

OTTAWA LAWYER TORY CHOICE FOR DREW SEAT

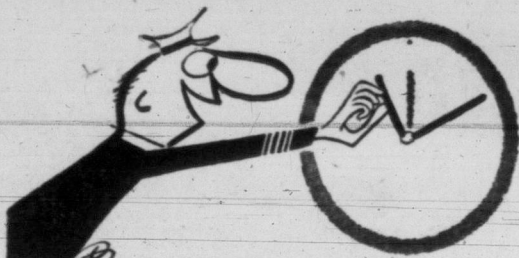

OTTAWA (CP)—R. A. (Dick) Bell, 43-year-old lawyer, Wednesday night won a three-way contest for nomination as Progressive Conservative candidate in Carleton riding.

Hon. George Drew, former party leader, resigned the traditionally-Conservative seat last January.

Mr. Bell's rivals were former mayor Charlotte Whitton, 61, and G. Russell Boucher, 57, a lawyer who twice had won the seat at the polls.

A breakdown of the balloting by the 1,074 voting delegates showed 685 for Mr. Bell, 288 for Mr. Boucher and 100 for Miss Whitton. One ballot was spoiled.

Bennett Bubbles Over About Showing in East

By PETER MURRAY
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett charged Wednesday that a Liberal MP used an office in the main Parliament Building at Ottawa last fall to distribute jobs to his friends.

The accusation of patronage against the unnamed member was made by the premier at a press conference here, following his return from Eastern Canada.

Mr. Bennett pronounced the first major Social Credit assault on the East as a great success, "away above my expectations."

Elaborating on his claim at a Montreal press conference that the federal Liberal government was guilty of "terrible and scandalous patronage," the premier said he uncovered the Ottawa incident while attending a federal-provincial tax rental conference.

Mr. Bennett said he had been allotted a room in the main Parliament Building for the duration of the conference.

But when he went to the office, he found it already occupied.

IT WAS ALL A MATTER OF GEOGRAPHY

Premier Bennett had a ready explanation Wednesday why he didn't get together with Jean-Paul St. Laurent on the TCA plane carrying them across the country Tuesday: They were too far apart in different sections of the plane.

"I would have spoken to him if we had been sitting a little closer," Mr. Bennett said.

150 ASSESSORS GO TO SCHOOL TO LEARN COMMON APPROACH

School opened here Wednesday for 150 provincial and municipal assessors.

The provincial government, through the office of the assessment equalization commissioner, is providing a three-day course in assessment methods. The aim is to bring about a common approach throughout B.C. to assessment of land and improvements.

Classes are being held at Central Junior High School.

Had to Find Jobs for Liberal Friends

A secretary told him, the premier said, that the occupants of the room were friends of a private Liberal MP from Ottawa.

"They're looking for jobs and we've got to look after them," Mr. Bennett quoted the secretary as saying.

Parliament was not in session at the time, Premier Bennett said.

Pressed by reporters, he would not disclose the name of the MPP alleged to have been involved.

(The Canadian Parliamentary Guide shows there were two Liberal MPs representing Ottawa at that time—J. T. Richard in Ottawa East and G. J. McIlraith in Ottawa West.)

Urged by Montreal newsmen to give specific examples of federal patronage, Mr. Bennett replied: "Horses on the payroll."

Not Real Horses—Party Wheelhorses

On Wednesday, he said he didn't mean the Petawawa Army Camp scandals of a few years ago but rather "the party wheelhorses."

Then he spoke about the Ottawa MP.

Mr. Bennett again attacked the press for "playing down" the big Social Credit rally in Toronto's Massey Hall last Thursday night.

"Something happened afterward," the premier said, implying that the newspapers deliberately minimized the importance of the meeting.

"It was the same in the (B.C.) election last fall," he said.

Reporters' estimates of the crowd present in Massey Hall to hear Mr. Bennett, national Social Credit leader Solon Low and Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta ranged from 1,200 to 1,800.

But party officials at the meeting had counted 2,140 "person by person," the premier said.

"It was the largest crowd of electors that has assembled in Canada since the election has been announced," the premier boasted.

"They wouldn't let me speak for applause."

'Best Political Meeting He'd Seen'

Mr. Bennett said an experienced political reporter told him it was the "best political meeting he'd seen since 1911."

Again the premier declined to name the man.

Premier Bennett re-asserted that Social Credit will win the balance of power in the federal election with a minimum of 40 seats across the country.

"Before this election is over, they won't be attacking the Conservatives or the Liberals, but Social Credit."

"How fearful they are here in B.C."

Keep Old Atmosphere at Gov't House

Mr. Bennett also touched on these subjects during the three-quarter-hour conference:

He said he had given no thought to the three provincial by-elections which must be held this year.

Tongue-in-cheek, he asked a reporter for advice on whether he should hold them before the June 10 federal election.

He hoped the new Government House will keep the "atmosphere" of the building which was destroyed by fire last week.

He doesn't anticipate holding the agriculture portfolio for "too long."

The government still hasn't received any direct word from Ottawa on the offer of financial aid for hydro development of the Columbia and will continue to wait for it to come before taking any action.

The new five-year tax-rental agreement with the federal government was signed by the premier Wednesday and will bring the province an estimated $59,000,000 in revenue in the current fiscal year.

'PALACE' MISNOMER

Anglican Salaries Increased by Synod

A $1,000 salary increase boosting his yearly stipend to $6,000 was ordered Wednesday for Archbishop Harold E. Sexton.

The synod of the diocese of British Columbia also approved addition of $300 to the minimum stipend for clerics now set at $2,400.

Before calling for a vote on the two-part motion, His Grace reminded synod delegates that "until four years ago you were doing absolutely nothing for the one indispensable person in this diocese."

At that time his monthly stipend of $350 was drawn from endowments and "I want to tell you my ledger didn't balance," he said.

Although the Bishop's "palace" requires domestic help, it is "practically impossible" to pay the wages that are demanded, the Archbishop said.

"The bishop's palace—w misnomer," commented T. B. T. Hewett, layman John's Church.

"I refer particularly to kitchen," he said. "It's the disgraceful thing I think ever seen."

The diocese should be of the fact that its bishop the archbishop of British Columbia and entertains celebrities," he said.

Capt. Hewett urged the executive committee of the to consider renovating places in the residence.

Discussion on the matter dropped after Archbishop ton disclosed that "some esteemed persons" are already considering establishment of an official residence for the cesan bishop.

Shouldn't Tar All Youths With Rowdy Tag---Hills

(See Also Page 16)

Almost automatic linking of "teenager" and "rowdy" was deplored by Rev. William Hills, St. George the Martyr Church, in his annual report on social service to the diocesan synod meeting Wednesday.

Speaking for his social service unit, he said: "An old saying runs: 'Give a dog a bad name and he'll live up to it.' Perhaps recent publicity concerning activities of the adolescent has worked in this fashion." "Much would be accomplished if older folk would not expect the average growing boy

Anglican Old People's Home Suggested

Establishment of an Anglican Old People's Home on Vancouver Island to mark the centenary of the diocese in 1959 was suggested in the annual report of Archbishop Harold E. Sexton. The home should give "special consideration for retired clergy and their widows," he said.

The archbishop said he will point a special committee to arrange centennial observances, which may include presentation of a pageant of English church history with an act relating to the history of the diocese. The occasion also will call for visit from "one or more leading churchmen of the Anglican communion," he said. Archbishop Sexton said he hoped "suitable religious serv-

At the afternoon sitting delegates voted unanimously in favor of organizing a laymen's society on an island-wide scale. The society will be formed by the executive committee.

B.C. to Match Annual Amount On UBC Grants

The government has placed no ceiling on the annual matching grants it will make to the University of British Columbia capital gift fund, Premier Bennett said Wednesday.

The money will be made available as fast as the amounts are decided at conferences between UBC and government officials, the premier said.

The question arose last week when retired industrialist Leon Koerner and the B.C. Electric donated $750,000 to the university.

UP TO $500,000

Dr. A. E. (Dal) Grauer, newly-elected chancellor of UBC, said at that time Premier Bennett told him the government planned to match donations up to $500,000 a year for 10 years.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said, however, the government was prepared to match public donations in excess of $500,000 a year "if UBC's building program is progressing to that extent."

This was confirmed by the premier Wednesday. Mr. Koerner and his wife are giving $500,000 for a new faculty centre on the campus.

MONTE ROBERTS

You may find it hard to believe, but I, too, was once a Boy Scout.

(It would be even harder to believe if I said I, too, was once a girl scout... but still...)

What I remember most about being a Boy Scout was the useful instruction I received in the art of tying knots.

When the first knot-tying lesson came along, I expressed some doubt as to the value of same.

But the scoutmaster explained that tying knots was one of the things every young boy should know.

"You never know when somebody will come up to you and ask you to tie a knot," the scoutmaster said. "And if you tie the knot as requested, you can mark that down as your good deed for the day."

Much impressed, I bent to the task of learning how to tie a knot.

And that very night I learned how to tie a reef knot. Simple: over, under, over, under and through. I can remember the instructions to this day.

Or was it under, over, over, under and through?

In any event, I am sure I learned the lesson well.

And, just as the scoutmaster said, it was not long before somebody came up to me and asked me to tie a knot.

The somebody was my mother, and she asked me to tie a knot in a broken clothesline.

So I tied it together with a reef knot—over, under, over, under and through (I think).

So my mother thanked me, and, while I was making a written record of my good deed for the day, my mother hung a large quantity of washing on the line.

I hardly need mention that the knot slipped, the clothes fell into a choice selection of mud, and my allowance mysteriously disappeared for a period of weeks.

Perhaps it should have been under, over, under, over, and through.

I would have gone back to the next knot-tying lesson at the scouts, but I was cashiered out of the troop.

They caught me being helped across the street by an old lady.

Under, over, over, under, AND through... or was it...?

They had told their parents

Outside of wear and tear on the nerves of their anxious parents, and loss of sleep, no ill came from their adventure.

It started at 10 a.m. Wednesday when the three boys, all on Easter vacation from Oak Bay High School, set out from Oak Bay beach for a day's fishing.

At 4.30 p.m., the motor of their tiny craft coughed out, and a rising wind whipped the sea into a vicious chop.

Instead of trying to paddle back to Oak Bay against the wind, they obeyed instructions and made for the nearest land—a sheltered cove on South Chatham Island.

They had told their parents

Three 16-year-old Victoria boys obeyed "standing orders" Wednesday night—and cheated a stormy Juan de Fuca Strait.

In accordance with instructions from their parents, the boys paddled their 10-foot fiberglass boat to the nearest shore when the motor conked out, and there awaited rescue.

The boys are: Roger Peeke-Vout, 2730 Foul Bay Road, owner of the boat; Barry Menzies, 1860 Greatford Place; Alex Campbell, 1834 Newton.

Queen's Honor for Best of B.C.'s Scouts

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Seventy-six boy scouts from all parts of British Columbia stepped proudly up to Lieut. Gov. Frank Ross this afternoon to receive their Queen's Scout certificates—the highest award in scouting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross had postponed their month-long trip to England and Europe in order to officiate at the impressive ceremony in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden.

Provincial executive commissioner Ken Jordan introduced each boy in turn to the lieutenant-governor and personal greetings were exchanged.

Times publisher Stuart Keate attended as president of the B.C. Scout Association. Four Victoria boys became Queen's Scouts at the ceremony — Michael Whiteaker, Brian Small, David Carl and David Field, Johnny Slater of Sidney, whose father Flight Sergeant Jonathan Slater was killed while serving with the RCAF during the war, also received the coveted award.

Vancouver produced the greatest number of Queen's Scouts, 32. Five came from Kelowna and seven from nearby Rutland. Chilliwack produced four and New Westminster four.

From Fernie came Blake Ridyard, Jock Arbuckle and Dick Pinotti.

TOO BIG

"I like Victoria but I'd like it better if it wasn't so big," 15-year-old Blake Ridyard said.

Other scouts from small B.C. towns also regarded the capital as a teeming metropolis by comparison.

"It's much bigger than I expected," said Robert Jeannejohn, 16, who joined the Nelson Wolf Cub pack when he was eight and is now with the 5th Nelson scout troop.

In spite of their crowded schedule in Victoria, the scouts found time for the day's good turn that is an essential of scout training.

MAKE OWN BED

At the homes where they are billeted during the two-day visit, they made their own beds, helped with the washing-up and in some cases minded infants before setting out for a tour of the Legislative Buildings and the Provincial Museum—the first event of the day.

"Everyone has been kind to us," said Harry F. Middleton, 15-year-old Kelowna scout, "and we like to help out in any way we can."

Arvid Kristiansen from Rutland is billeted at the University School and finds this scholastic atmosphere to his liking.

"Victoria is certainly a garden city—I'd like to live here. But Rutland is pretty good, too," he said.

"SIR," "MAM"

Without exception, the Scouts address male adults as "Sir" and women as "Mam."

"They are clean and smart in appearance and behave respectfully to all without being timid or shy."

"Scouts are trained to be self-reliant," said provincial field commissioner Jim Blaine. "Therefore they do not adopt an apologetic attitude—they are Scouts and proud of it."

Provincial Executive Commissioner Jordan said the visiting Scouts had conducted themselves in a dignified and orderly fashion.

"This was evident from the moment they arrived in Esquimalt Wednesday evening aboard the RCN frigate New Glasgow and proceeded to Thunderbird Park for roll-call."

In less than half an hour every Scout had been picked up by his host or hostess, many of them parents of Victoria Scouts—and Thunderbird Park was deserted except for two or three officials.

TOUR

The Scouts were conducted over the Legislative Buildings by H. R. Roy of the provincial archives, who told them there were 400,000 books in the library and 110 B.C. newspapers on view.

They were especially interested in the portraits of Canadian VCs from the First and Second World Wars which are hung in the entrance to the library.

And their attention was drawn to the picture of Lt. Col. Cecil Merritt of Vancouver, who won his VC in the famed Dieppe raid of 1942 and is now a leading scout executive.

The scouts also inspected the portraits of B.C. lieutenant-governors and premiers hung outside the legislative chamber and then viewed the stuffed animals in the provincial museum.

To round out the morning, the scouts went swimming at the Crystal Garden before being entertained at luncheon by the lieutenant-governor.

DINNER TONIGHT

Tonight they are attending a dinner in the Crystal Garden tendered by the provincial scout council at which Times editor Bruce Hutchison will be the main speaker.

"The visit has been a tremendous success so far," said Victoria district executive commissioner Robert Milks.

Three Boys Rescued After Obeying Orders

Three 16-year-old Victoria boys obeyed "standing orders" Wednesday night—and cheated a stormy Juan de Fuca Strait.

In accordance with instructions from their parents, the boys paddled their 10-foot fiberglass boat to the nearest shore when the motor conked out, and there awaited rescue.

The boys are: Roger Peek-Vout, 2730 Foul Bay Road, owner of the boat; Barry Menzies, 1860 Greatford Place; Alex Campbell, 1834 Newton.

NO HARM

Outside of wear and tear on the nerves of their anxious parents, and loss of sleep, no ill came from their adventure.

It started at 10 a.m. Wednesday when the three boys, all on Easter vacation from Oak Bay High School, set out from Oak Bay beach for a day's fishing.

At 4.30 p.m., the motor of their tiny craft coughed out, and a rising wind whipped the sea into a vicious chop.

Instead of trying to paddle back to Oak Bay against the wind, they obeyed instructions and made for the nearest land—a sheltered cove on South Chatham Island.

They had told their parents

they would be back home at 5 p.m., so felt reasonably sure a search would be launched for them by nightfall.

Continuing to follow "standing orders," the boys then lit signal fires, and settled down to wait for help.

When darkness fell, their parents sent out an alarm, and the waterfront sprang into action.

Co-ordinated by Air Sea Rescue at Vancouver, boats were readied by Royal Victoria Yacht Club members, B.C. Pilotage Authority, the RCN, and Island Tug & Barge Ltd.

At 1.55 a.m., an RVYC member, Dick Alexander, in his cruiser Duna, spotted the signal fires and picked up the three boys—cold, hungry and tired.

NO, HENRY IT'S FOR BACK NOT STOMACH

There's nothing like a hot drink to put a little fire in the stomach on a cool day, but 22-months-old Henry Peterson, 1426 Vining, really started a blaze when he gulped a few slugs of limiment.

Behind his mother's back the youngster took a few pulls straight from the bottle this morning before a her frantic hands rescued him.

City police took the child and mother to Jubilee Hospital where the limiment was pumped out and a smoother poultice poured in.

Merchants May Defy Closing Law

The 45-member Independent Merchants' Co-Operative Association here today girded for action to break regulations in the new Municipal Act which would close them in the evenings.

First step is circulation of an open letter to housewives seeking their support, and second move will be a public meeting May 10 at 8 p.m. in the Labor Temple where specific anti-legislation resolutions will be drafted.

To date 500 letters have been sent housewives over the signature of William Palmer, 1109 Kings Road, association president, and another 1,000 are slated for mailing.

EFFECTIVE JULY 1

The act calls for closing of stores that sell groceries every evening except Fridays, when they can stay open until 9 p.m. The act becomes effective July 1.

Said the letter to housewives: "It is up to you to demand our services be maintained. It is the little guy who gives you many services you are entitled to. He does not hire help nor does he conflict with the principles of labor, but he sure pays plenty of taxes to our fair city's treasury department, and is a fixture in your community you can depend on."

A letter to members outlined two alternative methods of action.

1. Make a brief and present it to the provincial cabinet urging amendments to the act.

2. Destroy the act by staying open regardless of legislation.

"It is up to you to support this meeting, or are we going to wear the hammer and sickle?" the letter stated.

"If the liquor stores can stay open, why can't the small 'mom and pop' grocery also remain open to provide milk for the baby?" said Mr. Palmer.

Whirly-Skirted Dresses
For Square Dance Jamboree

By PENNY SAVER

I'm told that the Square Dance Jamboree takes place next week. Those of you who haven't bought your square dance dress can still buy bright, attractive ones with huge, eight-yard skirts. A new shipment has arrived just in time for the jamboree. Of drip-dry cotton, the many-patterned dresses with a variety of stylish necklines are priced at $12.95. Others, with the same attractive stylings but with less swirl to the skirts are from $6.95.

Sub-teen styles are getting better and better, and the party dresses found today will thrill any junior high schooler. Filmy nylon is posed over stiffened net and taffeta, forming a wonderfully full skirt. The gathered bodice features an Italian neckline, and to complete the picture, there's an empire line jacket, in perfect complement to the long, wavy line of the bodice. This particular dress comes in both mint green and pink. Many other styles are available, too. This is the party time of year, especially for students, so these dresses will be popular. They are under $20.

I noticed some new overalls for juniors. These are a red and white tiny plaid, and instead of a bib front, there is a mannish waist of white trimmed with the plaid. They come in very little boy sizes, and are $4.95.

If you enjoy doing or seeing attractive needlepoint, these pictures will please you. The main picture is finished, but you fill in the background with white, or the color to suit your room decor. In a kit there is a hand-embroidered picture, yarn to complete the piece, instructions and an oval glass and wooden frame. There are many floral patterns from which to choose. Finishing the picture will be fun, and you'll have the enjoyment of hanging a picture you've helped to make.

The complete kits are yours for $3.98. For information about any of the items in the column, call me at 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The short, rapid reducing diet (when you have only a few pounds to lose) is valuable because it is so encouraging. Practically every woman can stick to a slimming diet for nine days time—especially if she knows she can lose a certain number of pounds in that time.

If you have many pounds to lose, the short, rapid diet gives you a good start and encourages you to continue. After this exciting beginning you can add three or four hundred calories a day for the long pull. It is not wise to lose a great deal of weight too rapidly.

The short reducing diet causes many women to lose overweight who would otherwise procrastinate from month to month and year to year. When dieting it is always wise to take supplementary vitamins. You should also pay special attention to skin lubrication since fats are cut in the diet and the skin must be pliable in order to adjust to its new proportions.

If you are using my 9-day reducing diet, stick to it. It is of short duration and you will not succeed if you diet one day and then go over your prescribed calorie intake the next.

Allen-Sinkinson Wedding Vows Spoken in Double-Ring Service

St. David's-by-the-Sea Anglican Church was decorated with fresh spring flowers last Saturday for the ceremony which united in marriage Carolyn May Sinkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sinkinson, 1104 D'Arcy Lane, Cordova Bay, and Donald Barclay Allen, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Allen, 3015 Foul Bay Road.

Rev. R. J. Welsh conducted the double-ring service and traditional wedding music was played by organist, A. S. Miller. During signing of the register, Mrs. Dorothy Ashby sang a solo. Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride was lovely in her full-length gown of white satin with overskirt of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice of lace featured a scalloped neckline. A coronet of pearls and sequins held the bride's fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses surrounded by white feathered carnations. She wore the groom's gift of cultured pearls.

Maid of honor, Miss Edna Galt of North Vancouver, wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow nylon chiffon over taffeta with draped bodice, full skirt and floating panel of chiffon at back. Bridesmaids, Miss Joan Smith, Burnaby, and Miss Susan Sinkinson, sister of the bride, wore gowns similar to the one worn by Miss Galt, but in aqua shade. All carried colonial bouquets of yellow and aqua carnations and wore floral headresses to match.

Miss Sharon Sinkinson, flower girl, wore a frock of yellow and carried a colonial bouquet of carnations. The groom had Gerald Stewart as best man and Lewis Knott, Russell Robertson and Brian Sinkinson, brother of the bride, as ushers.

RECEIVE GUESTS

At a reception held in St. Alban's Parish Hall, the young couple and their parents received guests. Mrs. Sinkinson wore a beige dress with lace bodice and full taffeta skirt with pale blue accessories and tinted blue gardenia corsage. Mrs. Allen wore a soft rose-colored nylon lace and net dress over taffeta. Skirt was full, and bodice of nylon lace was scattered with sequins. Her accessories matched and she wore a gardenia corsage.

Dr. M. W. Lees proposed the toast to the bride and the couple cut a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink rosebuds and surrounded by white tulle sprinkled with the same buds. Silver candelabra flanked the cake.

Motoring to Portland on honeymoon, the bride wore a pale blue fitted suit with pink hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will live at 8635 French Street, Vancouver.

Victoria Women's Institute, Friday, 2 p.m., YWCA club rooms. Plans for spring tea and sale.

Ann Williamson and Keith Wilson Wed in Pink and White Setting

As Malcolm Hamilton, organist, played traditional wedding music, Miss Margaret Ann Williamson, on the arm of her father, entered the First United Church to become the bride of Keith Evan Wilson in a ceremony performed by Rev. A. I. Higgins.

The lovely, dark-haired bride had two attendants dressed in pink with highlights of white, carrying out a pink and white motif of the entourage and floral setting. Carnations, snapdragons and Easter lilies were placed at the front of the chancel for the service which united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Williamson, 1473 Hillside Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Wilson, 86 Maddock Avenue.

A ballerina-length gown fashioned with lace bodice and jacket and full, hooped skirt of net and lace was worn by the bride. From a tiara of sequins and pearls misted a fingertip veil of illusion net, and completing her ensemble, she carried a bridal bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Maureen Clark, and bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Wilson, sister of the groom, were dressed alike in pink-patterned nylon dresses. Their handmaids were of white feathers, and their bouquets of pink and white carnations and bluebells.

The groom had his brother, Jim Wilson, as best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows were Bob Jones and Alan Mercer. A reception party was held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where a lace and linen cloth covered the bride's table centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Pink tulips and white candles in silver holders completed the arrangement. The bride's uncle, D. Y. Russell, proposed the toast. Telegrams from relatives in Australia were read.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a beige knitted suit complemented with chocolate brown shoes and bag, a honey-beige hat and brown muskrat cape. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

Following a honeymoon trip to Seattle and a tour of the state of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home in Victoria.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngsters who ask the first question answered each day receive a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas of Ontario.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Stephanie Shields, 8, Omaha, Neb., for her question:

Why Do Earthquakes Happen?

At a quarter to noon, on March 22, our old Andy got shaken up in an earthquake. He was sitting in his chair writing you-know-what when suddenly a load of big books tumbled out of the bookcase into his lap. A statue of the Roman goddess Diana fell down and broke off her head. Mrs. Rama-Pooka, Andy's white cat, scooted off and climbed up the chimney. For the ground was shaking sideways and up and down and everything—everything was jolted along with it.

This, of course, was the recent earthquake of the beautiful city of San Francisco. It was a fairly bad one. Windows were broken, a few chimney pots fell and all the cats and dogs in Andy's favorite supermarket were shaken out of the floor. The upset lasted about a minute—no one was hurt seriously. Mrs. Rama-Pooka let Andy wash her white again, the statue was mended and things were soon back to normal.

The earthquake was caused by masses of heavy rock rumbling and tumbling about miles below the ground. In some places, the deep layers of the earth's crust are cracked, buckled and piled all higgledy piggledy. Like a pile of badly balanced building blocks, they are likely to topple. When this happens, the upset is felt by the surface layers over the upheaval. The ground shakes, shifts and sometimes cracks open in fissures.

Such an area of topsy turvey underground layers of rock is called a fault in the earth's crust. As you expect, it occurs where the surface is uneven. Faults follow the line of high mountains beside ocean deeps and earthquakes haunt the fault regions.

One earthquake belt, at the foot of the Himalaya ridge, runs along the Mediterranean region. Another runs along the high mountains that border the western shores of North and South America. The San Andreas, the most active fault in the world, is in this region. It begins up north, under the Pacific Ocean, moves into California just north of San Francisco, runs south to the Salton Sea and maybe into the Gulf of Mexico.

Around San Francisco, the San Andreas fault wrinkles like an old apple into several faults.

Any one of them can shrug its shoulders and shake the city. The recent one registered 5.3 on the earthquake scale and shocked the needle of the recording instrument out of use. There were sizeable quakes before and after the big one. For it takes many shakes before the tumbled rocks below ground are settled again.

The year 1806 is remembered for a far more severe quake that shook San Francisco. Gas mains were broken and the city burned. It was rebuilt with special mains and a plentiful supply of fire fighting water. And this time the city was ready to defend itself from the worst danger of an earthquake—which is fire.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Donald Burdette, age 12, of Peoria, Illinois, for his question:

How do mushrooms compare with toadstools?

Mushrooms and toadstools are all members of the fungus plant family. There are countless varieties of fungi, ranging from the big puff balls to tiny yeasts that make our daily bread. Over a hundred fungi are good to eat, some are harmful and a few are downright poisonous. We very often class the good ones as mushrooms and the bad ones as toadstools.

It would be fine if the different fungi wore signs. Eat Me, Better Leave Me Alone or Definitely Leave Me Alone. But they do not. What's more, at certain stages, some of the worst resemble some of the best. Only an expert dares to go gathering strange fungi growing wild with the idea of sampling a new flavor. Andy suggests that you never, never eat a wild mushroom unless someone who is quite sure tells you that it is not a toadstool.

All the fungi with white spore powder in the gills under the umbrella are poisonous. So are those with milky white juice. The most dangerous have a round base to the stem. An expert avoids these danger signs—but even this is not enough. He avoids all baby mushrooms growing in the wild. For some of these youngsters look just like friends and turn out to be enemies.

Foreign Capital Boon to Canada OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, vice-chancellor and principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., said Tuesday night there should be no limitation imposed by Canada on investment from other countries, especially the United States.

He also told the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy that Canada's greatest need in the period ahead is not industrial resources or capital but trained, educated persons of integrity.

Dr. Mackintosh said current external investment was a minor fraction of the total annual investment in Canada. It was almost wholly business investment, largely equity investment, and was conspicuous where it was concentrated in certain industries.

"Much of it is in the form of direct investment by United States companies and in certain areas it carries with it financial control. It should be clear to us that without this external investment the whole rate of progress and development would be sharply reduced. Every period of economic advance in this country has been accompanied by the import of capital."

"It is clear that there ought to be no limitation imposed by Canada on investment from other countries. Capital has come to us not only because of investment opportunities but also because of reliance on fair and reasonable treatment."

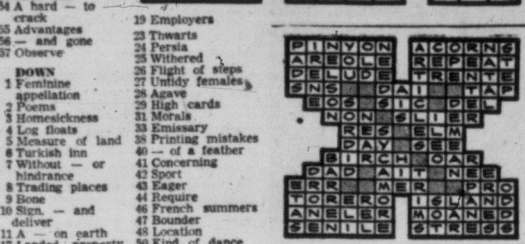

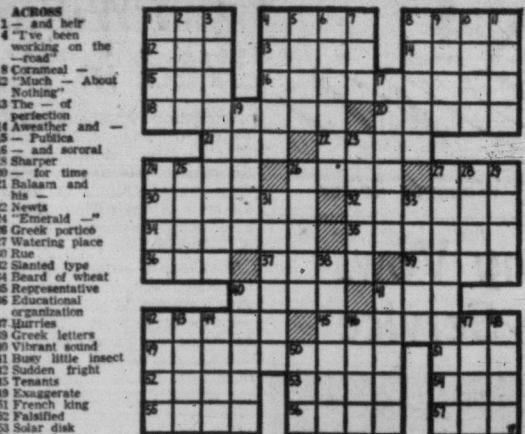

Younbou Group: Ray Hutchinson passed the required tests for second class. Cyclist badges were earned by Robert Molr and Ken Schedel. Lorne Homand was invested as a Wolf Cub at the pack meeting, and Michael Shelling received his first star.

DUNCAN-CHEMAMUS DISTRICT: An invitation has been received from the Mid-Island district for patrols to take part in a Camporee on May 4-5.

Patrols may go into camp on the evening of May 3, if they wish.

Scouters wanting full particulars should write to district commissioner E. R. Stevens, 661 St. Andrews Street, Nanaimo.

It is hoped that the Duncan-Chemamus district will be sending a good representation of patrols to take part in the event.

How to Play Safe With Boat Trailers

Growth in popularity of the small trailer-borne inboard or outboard craft has given rise to a multitude of new problems connected with dragging boats around the countryside on wheels.

With care, a boat can be towed for thousands of miles on a trailer, and be loaded and unloaded countless times, without mishap. Carelessness and ignorance, though, can cause damage with disastrous suddenness either on the open highway, in traffic, on the launching ramp, or even in the water.

Trouble in the water, of course, is a delayed reaction to maltreatment of some kind on land.

Observance of the following simple suggestions will take care of all the major troubles that beset towed trailers, and will ensure that boat and engine travel safely and without harm.

Use safety chains. They will prevent loss of trailer and boat if the hitch mechanism breaks.

Check trailer hitch and tie-downs for security after driving a few miles.

Loosen the tie-down when the trailer is parked overnight.

Check the car's insurance policy to make sure it is covered when towing a trailer.

Make sure the trailer fits the boat. The boat should be supported in at least three places. If a motor is carried on the boat, insist on transom support.

When towing a trailer, drive accordingly. Remember it takes more room to pass another car, more room to park and a greater distance to stop. Drive at slightly slower speeds.

For safety and performance, a frame hitch is preferable to a bumper hitch.

City health committee Wednesday decided to thrash out with sanitary and building inspectors regulations concerning living accommodation as required under city by-laws.

The move was sparked by Miss J. L. Crossley, 73, who lives in a basement room at 430 Dallas, and refuses to move despite condemnation of her quarters by various city inspectors.

Owner of the house, R. Williams, has applied to allow conversion to a rooming house. The zoning board of appeal has agreed if fire-proofing and other alterations are made, but disallows living accommodation in the basement.

"Is the board of appeal prepared to find a home for this poor old soul," asked Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

He said that if the various city inspectors checked on every old home in the city and adhered to the letter of the by-laws, numerous elderly folks would be out on the street.

One of the complaints concerning Miss Crossley's accommodation is the height of her one room, under six feet. Regulations call for seven feet six inches.

"There are many people in Victoria living in basement rooms under seven foot six. Are we going to throw them all out?" questioned Mr. Edgelow.

CITY BLAME Ald. Elmer McEwen said that if Miss Crossley burned to death in her room, the city would be "raked over the coals."

Said Ald. Edgelow: "What has the height of a ceiling got to do with fire?"

The proper solution to such accommodation, said Ald. Edgelow, was to make the situation as safe as possible, "but not intolerable."

There were, in fact, too many inspectors, he said.

"What, for example, does the smoke inspector do?"

City Manager C. C. Wyatt said "I'm not too sure what his activity is—I presume it has to do with furnace or incinerator installations."

OBNOXIOUS "I've heard an awful lot of complaints about these inspectors," continued Ald. Edgelow. "They call and in some cases I've been told they make themselves obnoxious."

Ald. McEwen termed many of Victoria's building by-laws as "stringent," and said he saw little reason what duties of the smoke inspector could not be handled by the fire inspector.

Miss Crossley, meanwhile, stays in the room she has occupied for 18 years, but under existing regulations the house cannot be converted as long as she stays there.

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Five men of the 88 survivors of the Springhill mine blast that cost 39 lives last Nov. 1 are among the crews clearing the debris-blocked coal mine so it can get back into production.

Charles Burton, Wilfred Brown, Glen Embree, Reggie Gibson and Murray Terrell were among those trapped deep underground. But that was last November, and now these five, with a score of other miners, are cleaning up the mine in a tough, dangerous operation.

Work has progressed down to the 2,500-foot level, in hard going. To reach that point 127 tons of stone and nearly 10 tons of ice have been broken up, shovelled and hoisted in coal boxes to the surface.

Randolph Carter, manager for No. 4 slope which is the mine's airway intake, said the ice formed as quickly as it could be chipped away during the winter, but the men continued to work despite the cold, with temperatures sometimes below zero.

With the coming of spring there is less ice, but more water to contend with.

As the men inch forward they timber and shore up the roof and walls of the mine passages. The men doing the clean-up job know that this is not always a 100 per cent safeguard. Twisted beams, some of steel, that could not withstand the earlier upheaval, are strewn along the way.

Because of the cramped space in the slope the men work in crews of six or seven, and each must know just what the other is doing.

To lift the wrong beam, or bump against the wrong pillar, might cause a fall of stone. As they advance, every foot of the cleared roadway is carefully checked to ensure the safety of the rails along which the loaded cars are pulled.

TRAFFIC FINES In city police court Wednesday:

Chu Ming, 554 1/2 Fisgard, $25 and $5 costs for driving without a licence and $5 for driving through a stop sign.

Dallas Gordon Greig, 630 Langford, $50 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident and $35 for careless driving.

David H. Protheroe, 222 Anson, $40 and licence suspension for careless driving.

Party were guests of Lou Perini (centre), chairman of the board of the Milwaukee Braves and executive of one of North America's largest construction firms, which has large Canadian holdings.

Big Expansion This Summer At Phone HQ

A 12,000-square-foot expansion of Victoria's telephone building is planned this summer. One addition, a single storey structure in the parking lot behind the building at 1321 Blanshard, will house a new automatic long distance switchboard and associated equipment. The second addition will be a "fill in" of the back half of the present building's third storey. Details of construction will not be available until the plans are completed. Tenders will be called as soon as the plans are approved with a proviso for an immediate start. The cordless switchboard, with 44 operator positions, will go into service in 1959 at the same time as a similar 192-position board in Vancouver.

FEW SECONDS

Victoria operators will be able to ring any one of millions of telephones on the North American continent in a few seconds by tapping keys on the switchboard that will select an idle circuit of the shortest route. Total cost of both switchboard installations, together with associated equipment at a number of other B.C. points, will be in the neighborhood of $7,000,000. The proposed one-storey addition here will give more space for future installation of automatic equipment. Present space is expected to be filled when the current installation of $440,000 worth of automatic equipment is completed.

Canadian Truce Official Probes Cannon's Murder

SAIGON, Indochina (UP)—Canadian commissioner Thomas Carter flew to Hanoi, North Viet Nam, Wednesday, from Saigon, where he has spent 11 days investigating the murder of Canadian diplomat Lucien Cannon. He is expected to return Saturday. Police and Canadian officials have not disclosed what progress they have made in probing the April 12 fatal stabbing of Cannon inside a guarded compound housing truce commission officials. Informal sources said Canada is considering sending a criminal investigator to Saigon to aid in the murder inquiry.

Screen Star Ends Monastery Visit

MOUNT ANGEL, Ore. (AP)—A week-long stay at the Mount Angel Benedictine Monastery here was ended Tuesday by Ramon Navarro, a leading cinema actor in the silent screen era. He makes the visits "whenever I feel the need for real peace and relaxation." He left Portland later in the day to return to his home in California.

TWO STORIES JIBE

Cloak-and-Dagger Rescue Confirmed

TOKYO (AP)—A Tokyo business executive today backed up the story of an American pilot's daring flight into Communist China and said "there is no doubt about it." Dwight L. Moore, director of Air Tour Associates, said he heard "exactly the same story" 10 days ago in Bangkok from the British co-pilot of the plane, whose identity has been kept secret. Officials in Hong Kong and Macao have dubbed "fantastic" the story told by Henry Bush, a vacationing pilot for the Venezuelan airline who said he flew 350 miles into the Red mainland April 5 to fly the son of a wealthy Chinese businessman to freedom. "There's no way two men so many miles apart could have the same story right down to the last detail," said Moore. Moore has been in the Far East for the last 11 years and in 1948-49 served as a Marshall plan official in China.

Moore said he had known the mystery co-pilot "for some time." The flier, an unemployed former airline representative in the Thai capital, drew Moore a flight plan which jibed with the route for the flight outlined by Bush, Moore said. "Everything jibed," said Moore, who called the co-pilot "a completely reliable person." Moore, who met Bush only Thursday, said the co-pilot had been out of work for the last few months but was wearing "very expensive jewelry—the same kind Bush is wearing." Bush said earlier that he was given a watch, a ring and other gifts for the flight. The watch worn by the co-pilot in Bangkok was engraved with the same Chinese characters appearing on the back of Bush's watch, Moore said.

B.C. Teachers Reject Labor Affiliation

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Teachers' Federation Wednesday rejected a resolution urging re-affiliation with organized labor. And 600 teachers, meeting here, heard their new president predict the public will be shocked into "full awakening" this fall to the worst shortage of teachers the province has known. The vote against joining the Canadian Labor Congress was 344 to 251. A year ago, the federation broke away from the old Trades and Labor Congress by a vote of 304 to 275. Miss Molly Cottingham of Vancouver, a teacher for 29 years and the second woman president in the federation's 41-year history, told the convention: "It is appalling that our teacher-training institutions in B.C. will graduate only one-third of the 2,000 new teachers needed this summer."

"Our basic problem is raising salaries and pensions to an adequate standard. We must guard against having foisted upon us a provincial salary scale or having ourselves made into civil servants." During the convention, teachers frequently approached reporters to tell them discipline problems and hoodlums troubled at some schools don't reflect on students as a whole. Many of the teachers said students today are generally better behaved and better citizens than when they were at school.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson told the federation if more parents were active in parent-teacher associations there would be fewer problem children in our schools. "Parents must cultivate proper relationships between parent and child and parent and teacher to keep abreast of their child's activities and problems," Peterson said. Despite the great publicity given "problem" children, he said, they constitute a small percentage of "the thousands who graduate every year from our high schools."

BETTER QUALIFIED "High school graduates today are better qualified for their jobs and better educated than ever before," the school was not responsible for the problem child, "for a child is guided by his home life and parental example," he added. Delegates debating sex education decided only senior teachers should attempt it. H. B. Smith, assistant superintendent of Vancouver schools, said "properly mature experienced teachers should not be afraid of discussing subjects like sex, narcotics, or anything else" in appropriate classes. He added that the teacher must be confident he can keep the subject "in due bounds."

Dr. George Reavis, education counselor with the Field Foundation in Chicago, told the convention: "It is better to teach children a little and teach it well, than to have them misunderstand a lot. The teacher must decide how much can be taught and taught well."

Original Music At Fairfield Sunday Night Two musical compositions, the work of choir director Rodney Webster, will be presented for the first time at Fairfield United Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

"Octette in C" will be given by "church members" Ruth Ireland, violin; Barbara Doherty, violin; Patricia McIvor, viola; Eileen McCammon, flute; Carol McCammon, clarinet; Grace Haythorne, clarinet; Allan Haythorne, baritone horn, and Kenneth Oliphant, piano.

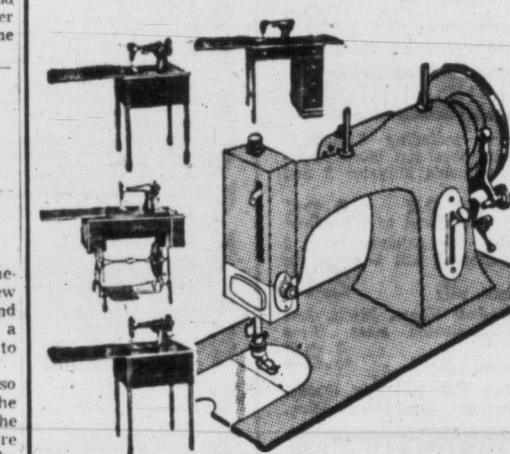

Soloists in the octata, "Bless the Lord O My Soul," based on the 103rd Psalm, will be Mrs. F. Keifer, soprano; Mrs. H. Youson, contralto; C. Horwood, tenor, and W. Ireland, bass.

OXFORD'S OLDEST University College, founded in 1249, is the oldest of the colleges at Oxford University in England.

ONE HOUSE—FOR FREE

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Desmond Brand of Sunshine, Victoria, bought a lot, intending to build a home on it. When he took his girl to see it both rubbed their eyes. The house was already there. The explanation: A builder made a mistake, and put up another man's house on the wrong lot. The Victoria Supreme Court has held that the house belongs to Brand, because he knew nothing about it, and because the builder later refused to negotiate with him. The builder says he will appeal.

N.Y. Market Curbs Lukens Steel Antics

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange has moved to moderate the wild acrobatics in Lukens Steel stocks. Trading in the volatile issue was suspended twice Wednesday.

The exchange announced Wednesday night that "during the present emergency no member, member firm or member corporation shall accept stop orders in Lukens stocks in round lots or odd lots." A round lot is shares in units of 100. Odd lot orders would be for anywhere from one to 99 shares.

The action was taken, said Keith Funston, exchange president, "in view of the unusual conditions which exist in the market in Lukens stock."

Brokerage sources interpreted the move as an effort to provide a more orderly market for Lukens. They said price fluctuations in the stock had been accentuated by "stop" orders.

A "stop" order is one given to brokers to buy or sell at the market when the price of a stock reaches a certain point. The order may be made by a customer to protect a profit or limit a loss.

Lukens common closed Wednesday at $101.25 a share, up $1.25, after pushing as high as $110.50 and slipping down to $98.25.

Dealings were halted twice for about two hours, but turned over for the day totalled 39,200 shares, making Lukens the third most active stock on the exchange.

Lukens stock has been rising in a spectacular manner, with the jump attributed largely to a steady climb in earnings. The stock had a 1957 low of $45.75 and made its high for the year at $110.50 Wednesday.

In Coatesville, Pa., Lukens officials said it was against company policy to comment on the movement of the stock. Lukens makes heavy types of steel plates for tanks, boilers and pressure vessels. It recently reported first-quarter earnings of $3.53 a share against $1.43 in the same quarter last year. The company's earnings per share for the first three months of 1957 were $3.53, compared with $1.43 for the same period in 1956.

YOUNG BRITISH COLUMBIA FACES UP TO FUTURE

Queen's Scouts from all parts of the province toured the Provincial Museum and Archives today before receiving Queen's Scout certificates from Lieut.-Gov.

ernor Frank Ross in an impressive ceremony at the Crystal Garden. Tonight they will be guests of the Provincial Scout Council at dinner. (See page 19.)

B.C. TEACHERS DEMAND HIGHER WAGE SCALES

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia school teachers voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to seek higher salaries. They say they want the right to strike if necessary.

More than 600 delegates to the annual B.C. Teachers' Federation convention rejected a recommendation from their salary committee that they retain the present minimum wage scales for another year.

The committee was instructed to draw up a higher scale and report back later today.

During a two-hour debate, the teachers also asked that the Public Schools Act be amended so that arbitration awards need not be accepted unless there is prior agreement by both parties. Executive assistant J. A. Sprague said this "could mean the right to strike."

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—The flood waters of the Carrot and Leather Rivers today were forcing the evacuation of about 40 persons from the Two Rivers Bible Institute 25 miles southeast of Nipawin and 100 miles east of here.

The institution stands at the forks of the two rivers and already several of its buildings have been floated away in the rampaging spring flood waters. Wednesday night, 30 head of cattle were stranded.

The 40 persons, including women and children, have been forced out of all but one of the buildings. Several hogs have been drowned and the central heating system of the institution has been out of operation for two days. The fresh water supply was cut off.

Communications with the institution and with several farmers in the area have been cut off as the overflowing rivers washed out power lines.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Lord of heaven and earth, who hast given us skill to plant the seed, grant us patience to await its fulfillment, while Thou dost bless the land with rain and sunshine in due season. Enable us in like faith and hope to sow the seed beside all waters and to await with patience its fulfillment in the conversion of mankind, while Thou dost bless our efforts and prayers continually, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

UN CHIEF SCORES RADIATION PANIC

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld cautioned today against creating panic by "half-baked" statements about atomic radiation dangers.

He was answering a question whether, in view of Japanese and Indian agitation for the cancellation of nuclear weapons tests, and statements by the Pope, Albert Schweitzer and others against such experiments, the UN atomic radiation committee should not speed its work in determining the danger from nuclear fallout.

Three B.C. Men On Lost Plane

Missing on Penticton-Vancouver Flight; Pat Bay Operator Heard Call Letters

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of a real estate firm, the head of a mortgage company and a free-lance radio producer were missing today aboard a small private airplane which disappeared Wednesday night on a 175-mile flight from Penticton to Vancouver.

The single-engine plane was owned and piloted by Walter L. Dalton, president of Dalton Ltd., a Vancouver insurance and real estate firm.

One of the passengers was Robert W. McLochlan, head of McLochlan Mortgage Co. The other was Fred McDowell, 46, free-lance radio producer and writer. All are from Vancouver.

The air force sent four search

planes into the air today from Vancouver, but two of them gave up the hunt temporarily because of cloud.

IN VALLEYS

One landed at Abbotsford, and the other returned to Vancouver. An air force spokesman said there was heavy cloud in the valley about 125 miles east of here where the search was concentrated, but "we have great hopes that it will clear."

The spokesman said weather in the area Wednesday night was ideal, and added: "I can't understand why he got lost."

Visibility was 15 miles and there was scattered cloud only at the 6,000 and 25,000-foot levels.

The search was concentrated in an area from Princeton, 30 miles westward.

Mr. McDowell's wife said she assumed he was aboard the plane. He left Vancouver for Penticton Wednesday with Mr. Dalton on a combined business and pleasure flight and phoned her at 6 p.m., saying he was flying back.

Mr. McDowell was sponsor's representative for the CBC program Harmony House. For 10 years he worked for James Lovick and Co., a Vancouver advertising firm. He once produced an early morning radio show for radio station CKOK in Penticton. He also was on the staff of CKDA, Victoria.

The lost plane, a Navion, left Penticton at 7:46 p.m. It carried only enough fuel to stay aloft until midnight.

HEARD PLANE

Robert Reading, 19-year-old trainee radio operator at Patricia Bay airport said he heard "what I think was the missing plane" on the air at about 10 p.m.

He said all he could distinguish over the crowded airwaves were the plane's identification letters—IDP.

They were identified as A. B. Crump, J. Kincaid, T. Hutchins, and W. Buss.

"There was not the slightest deviation or variation in detail in the stories they tell with an earnestness that defies ridicule," the newspapers noted.

Description

The men were out hunting in the vicinity of Horne Lake, midway between Great Central Lake and Comox Lake when they came upon the beast.

This is their description: "The wild man was apparently young, with long and matted hair and beard, and covered with a profusion of hair all over the body."

"He ran like a deer through the seemingly impenetrable tangle of undergrowth and pursuit was utterly impossible."

MIDEAST AT A GLANCE

AMMAN—Jordan put under martial law by King Hussein as anti-Communist Khalidi government forced out of office; king orders all political parties dissolved, curfew clamped down.

CANNES, France—American supercarrier Forrestal breaks off goodwill visit to France, sails suddenly for eastern Mediterranean, apparently to back Eisenhower pronouncement that Jordan independence vital to world peace.

CAIRO—Syria's president arrives from Damascus, goes into conference with Nasser.

LONDON—Britain says Jordan's independence and integrity "essential elements" in maintaining Middle East peace.

AUGUSTA, Ga.—Eisenhower keeps close watch on Jordan situation from Georgia vacation headquarters.

(From CP and UP Dispatches)

WASHINGTON—The United States sent the 6th Fleet into Middle East waters today and followed up with an accusation that "international communism" is posing a threat "to the independence and integrity of Jordan."

All Americans, including diplomatic personnel, were evacuated from the Jordan section of Jerusalem.

Lincoln White, state department press officer, read a statement which used words employed in a congressional resolution authorizing the use of force if necessary to block Red aggression in the Middle East.

But in response to long series of questions, White declined either to explain the nature of the threat or to say what if anything the U.S. would do if King Hussein of Jordan requested help.

Today's statement was a follow-up to a White House warning Wednesday night to Jordan's Arab neighbors against any effort to carve up the little kingdom.

Basic U.S. policy was laid down by the vacation White House at Augusta, Ga., after President Eisenhower conferred by phone with State Secretary Dulles in Washington.

The core of that pronouncement was that the U.S. regards "the independence and integrity of Jordan as vital" to U.S. interests and world peace.

There was no indication that Eisenhower and Dulles desired to intervene militarily on Jordan's behalf; the indication, diplomatic officials said, was rather that they wanted to remind Middle East countries of U.S. interest, U.S. policy and U.S. ability to act if necessary.

Supercarrier Sails on Short Notice

The fleet order sent the 60,000-ton supercarrier Forrestal, two cruisers and a force of destroyers steaming toward Middle East water so fast that 150 of the Forrestal's crew, on leave in Paris, were left behind.

King Hussein has attributed his country's troubles to "international communism and its followers." He said Wednesday that he could handle the situation without outside help.

Today as King Hussein struggled to preserve his government against a leftist-led revolt, here were the major developments:

Troops Guard Jordanian Capital

4. Troops from Saudi Arabia and Iraq were reported to have taken up positions shielding the Jordanian capital of Amman from the pro-Communist Palestine section of the country on the west and from pro-Communist Syria in the north.

5. Israel radio reported King Hussein had arrested former premier Suleiman Nabulsi and a number of army officers are being held in custody.

6. The Foreign Office announced in London it considers Jordan's stability "essential" to Middle Eastern peace and that it is consulting "other nations" on the new crisis.

7. The ultra-nationalist Herut Party in Jerusalem demanded that Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion recall parliament from vacation to consider the Jordan situation. Informed sources said Ben-Gurion was not likely to act. Both Ben-Gurion and Israeli Army Chief of Staff Maj.-Gen. Moshe Dayan were away from Jerusalem.

8. Syrian president Shukri El Kuwaili, Maj.-Gen. Awfik Nizam El Din, Syrian army chief of staff, Foreign Minister Salah Bitar and other officials flew from Damascus to Cairo for consultations with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

There were no indications that French and British naval units also in the Mediterranean had received similar orders to the U.S. fleet.

However, all three nations could act under their 1956 agreement to come to the aid of any Mid-Eastern nation threatened by aggression.

Strict censorship continued to cloud the situation inside Jordan, but United Press correspondent Joe Morris reported from Amman, the capital, that the Jordanian army had firm control of the city.

Armored units also were ordered to take over the Jordan section of Jerusalem, Jericho and Nabulus.

Reports from Jerusalem said that a number of persons had been killed or wounded in Wednesday's clashes between security forces and demonstrators. They said a number of policemen had joined the demonstrators.

One hundred soldiers were reported guarding the American Consulate in Old Jerusalem where rival sound trucks alternately were exhorting the populace to remain peaceful at home or to demonstrate in the streets.

Gov't Used RCMP as Alibi In Norman Case—Diefenbaker

(See also Page 12)

TORONTO (BUP)—Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker charged the federal cabinet today with trying to hide a breakdown in cabinet solidarity by using the RCMP as its alibi in the Norman case. Diefenbaker told a news conference that the RCMP had a world-wide reputation for care and accuracy, and that it did not "deserve the stigma of inefficiency."

Diefenbaker made the statement when asked for comment on the government's statement that the United States Senate internal security subcommittee learned of Ambassador E. Herbert Norman's university-days' association with left-wingers from a RCMP security report, which was later corrected.

The Conservative leader, in Toronto to start his nationwide election campaign tonight, said that the Norman case was not one on which he would wish to dwell upon personalities.

But he said that it represented a series of affirmations and denials, contradictions and corrections, indicating the cabinet was not keeping parliament properly informed of what was going on.

When parliament can't depend on the answers given by cabinet ministers to Opposition questions in the Commons, Diefenbaker said, "something is dreadfully wrong."

"I prefer," he said, "not to join in condemnation of the RCMP. That force is the envy of the world. The government is trying to alibi the responsibility of the cabinet by placing the blame on the RCMP."

SEEN ON VANCOUVER ISLAND EARLY IN CENTURY

Sasquatch Search Heads Wrong Way

By PETER MURRAY

It seems fairly clear the people of Harrison Lake and Agassiz will be wasting their centennial grant if they go looking for the hairy Sasquatch in the hills north of the Fraser Valley, as they now plan.

Even if they find something it is not likely to be anything more than an anemic descendant of the original Sasquatch of Vancouver Island.

If they are really sincere about this project they should send their expedition into the remote fastness of central Vancouver Island.

Mrs. E. B. Tinkham of Port Angeles, possibly had her tongue in her cheek when she wrote to Victoria Chamber of Commerce Wednesday saying she intended to seek the Sasquatch in Saanich.

But research on the subject today shows the Island undoubtedly was the first home of the legendary giants, the Harrison Hot Springs Board of Trade notwithstanding.

Never Caught

As long ago as 1904, search parties tramped the wooded trails and mountain passes of the Island tracking the Sasquatch.

Nobody ever caught one, mind you, but some came close.

And many more claimed they saw him.

Indian lore on the subject runs the gamut from myth to realistic reports of the "wild men" spotted in various districts.

According to one theory, the Island Sasquatch are the survivors of a once-powerful tribe gifted with the power of mesmerism hiding from civilization in mountain caves.

Another tale has it that the medicine men of the coastal Indian tribes, the Hamatsi, taught that no one dwell on the central mountains of the Island except evil spirits, which took visible form in the Sasquatch.

U.S. Asks Ban On A-Research

LONDON (AP)—The United States proposed today that all research on intercontinental ballistic missiles be halted in the first stage of any disarmament agreement.

United States delegate Harold Stassen told the United Nations disarmament subcommittee the initial step should include measures to prevent the development of all outer space nuclear weapons.

These mystic figures killed grouse with sling shots and crude bows and arrows and lived on berries and roots of the forest.

Took Refuge

A large ape or gorilla escaped from one of the Spanish vessels and took refuge in the forest.

Several months later it stormed into an Indian village and carried off a 15-year-old girl.

The fire was discovered while most of the 580 students were on the recreation grounds. The seminary had a staff of 70 and all were believed to have escaped.

The fire was believed to have started in a fourth-floor dormitory in the oldest section of the five-storey stone and wood structure. Plumbers had been working in the dormitory and it was believed a blow torch may have started the blaze.

Socreds 'Nuts', Says PM's Son

Jean-Paul St. Laurent, member of parliament for Temiscouata and the prime minister's son, describes Social Crediters as a bunch of "crackpots and nuts."

"If the Socreds send a candidate against me he will not get 100 votes," Mr. St. Laurent said.

... SASQUATCH

was Mike King, prospector and timber cruiser. He bumped into the creature crossing the trail from Port Hardy to the west coast. It was drawing near evening when he saw the Sasquatch bending down over a waterhole, washing edible grass roots.

At Mr. King's approach, the man-beast uttered a human cry "of mingled terror and defiance" and ran off.

Said Mr. King: "His body was covered with reddish brown hair and the arms were peculiarly long and used freely in climbing and bush running."

"The trail showed a distinct human foot, with phenomenally long and spreading toes." On May 2, 1905, the Colonist reported that a party of Indians in a canoe saw what they believed to be a bear on the shore between Union Bay and Comox.

One of the braves fired a shot and a naked man straightened up and ran off into the trees. He had apparently been digging clams. An Indian legend tells of the young Indian youth of the Comox tribe who was sent out by the witch doctor up the Puntledge River into the land of the evil spirits.

Escaped

He told of being captured by a group of huge, strange men and escaping after they tossed him over a cliff.

Reports of the wild man's existence on the Island were so persistent that in the spring of 1928 an expedition was organized in Vancouver.

It was under the direction of Jason Ovid Allard, 80-year-old adventurer, historian and lineal descendant of the legendary T'shosha, who was king of the Cowichan Indian nation extending from Saanich to Comox and up the Fraser to Yale.

Allard went first to Washington where he interviewed a Henry Napoleon of the Clallam tribe who claimed to have come in contact with the Sasquatch.

"I had been visiting relatives near Duncan, and was warned not to go too far into the wilderness," Napoleon told Allard.

"However in following a buck I had wounded, I went in farther than I expected. It was almost twilight when I came across an animal that I believed to be a big bear."

Spoke to Me

"But as I aimed at it with my gun, the creature looked up and spoke to me in my own tongue. It was a man about seven feet tall, and his body was very hairy."

Napoleon said he was invited to meet the rest of the tribe and was led into an underground trail. The Sasquatch hibernates like a bear in the winter months, Napoleon said. In the summer it raided coastal tribes and carried off women and children.

Allard was told that the Puntledge tribe was practically wiped out about 1850 in a night raid of strange natives from Forbidden Plateau.

Coast Indians today are still leery about going into the Plateau area.

Allard tracked down a number of rumors and legends and found no concrete evidence that the Sasquatch still lived on the Island. But who knows?

told a Liberal party rally at Vancouver Wednesday night.

"Social Credit can spend all the money they like to tell you they're winning support in the east, but they are not and they will not."

He reiterated that his father does not plan to retire after the June 10 election. He told the rally that "If Providence gives my dad the same health he has today he will be back in the 1961 election."

Saying that the country does not "want to hear from those crackpots across the floor" of the House—the opposition—Mr. St. Laurent added we "would willingly give up two seats in the east for one seat in the west for the good of Canada—we must have in our caucuses more people from the west to get the real views of this part of the country."

Harold Winch, CCF member of Parliament for Vancouver East, says Premier Bennett stuck his neck out in Ontario and "got it chopped off."

DISMAL FLOP

"All his bluffing now can't hide the fact the Toronto meeting was a dismal flop," Mr. Winch said at a CCF meeting here.

"The premier's gross miscalculation has convinced me Social Credit will not elect one member east of Alberta."

Mr. Winch also criticized a statement in which the premier is reported to have said that Canada has no foreign friends. "Canada has greater influence and respect today than ever before," Mr. Winch said.

Mr. Winch is expected to be re-nominated May 1 to defend Vancouver East.

Fergie Brown, cartage company traffic manager, was named Wednesday night to contest Vancouver-Kingsway riding for the Progressive Conservatives in the June 10 election.

The only B.C. riding in which the Conservatives now have not named a candidate is Kootenay East.

All Progressive Conservative candidates for B.C. ridings will gather in Vancouver Saturday for a campaign meeting.

The candidates will get together with their campaign managers and party officials to work out strategy and policy details.

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—Real Madrid, Spanish Soccer League champions, tied English champions Manchester United 2-2 tonight and qualified for the final of the European Cup against Fiorentina of Italy.

The Spaniards previously defeated Manchester 3-1 in Madrid and won on a 5-3 aggregate goals basis. The match was decided on total goals in the home and away matches.

A sell-out crowd of 62,000 cheered wildly every Manchester move, but the Spanish team always had the edge when it came to craft and brilliant ball control. The second half was televised with an estimated 6,000,000 fans watching the play.

Manchester's defeat ruined its chances of the unique treble of success in English League and cup and European Cup competitions. Manchester already had won the English League championship for the second straight year and is due to meet Aston Villa in the English Cup final May 4 at Wembley Stadium.

Three Mill Tax Hike in Oak Bay; Salary Boosts, Drainage Blamed

Oak Bay's 4,200 home owners will pay an additional three mills on their 1957 taxes, it was learned today. This jumps the rate to 31.95. Increase was necessitated by three main factors: construction of storm sewers for drainage, school costs, including increased salaries, and recent increases granted some municipal employees. Biggest project which accounts for 1.33 mills is extensive construction of drains at an estimated cost of $36,000. School costs will account for about one-half mill and the difference will go towards municipal costs, including purchase of new equipment. Tenders were opened Wednesday for construction of the new

Seven bids were received. Lowest was from Parfitt Construction Co. Ltd. for $39,256, while the others ranged up to $49,448.

Decision on awarding of the contract will be made at a special council meeting Friday at 5:30 p.m.

MONTE ROBERTS

You may find it hard to believe, but I, too, was once a Boy Scout.

(It would be even harder to believe if I said I, too, was once a girl scout... but still...)

What I remember most about being a Boy Scout was the useful instruction I received in the art of tying knots.

When the first knot-tying lesson came along, I expressed some doubt as to the value of same.

But the scoutmaster explained that tying knots was one of the things every young boy should know.

"You never know when somebody will come up to you and ask you to tie a knot," the scoutmaster said. "And, if you tie the knot as requested, you can mark that down as your good deed for the day."

Much impressed, I bent to the task of learning how to tie a knot.

And that very night I learned how to tie a reef knot. Simple: over, under, over, under and through. I can remember the instructions to this day.

Or was it under, over, over, under and through?

In any event, I am sure I learned the lesson well.

And, just as the scoutmaster said, it was not long before somebody came up to me and asked me to tie a knot.

The somebody was my mother, and she asked me to tie a knot in a broken clothesline.

So I tied it together with a reef knot—over, under, over, under and through (I think).

So my mother thanked me, and while I was making a written record of my good deed for the day, my mother hung a large quantity of washing on the line.

I hardly need mention that the knot slipped, the clothes fell into a choice selection of mud, and my allowance mysteriously disappeared for a period of weeks.

Perhaps it should have been under, over, under, over, and through.

I would have gone back to the next knot-tying lesson at the scouts, but I was cashiered out of the troop.

They caught me being helped across the street by an old lady.

Under, over, over, under, AND through... or was it...?

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The junior cribbage club of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society has really got something of which to be proud.

Mrs. J. R. Marrs, 723 Selkirk, Wednesday drew a perfect 29 hand in the sixth game of the evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Klunck, 2565 Forbes.

Four persons were playing at the time. Mrs. William Brown, 2250 Bowker, dealt the hand to her partner, Mrs. Marrs.

Mrs. Marrs and Mrs. Brown, of course, won.

CAMERA-SHY COMET PLAYS COY WITH ASTRONOMERS AT SAANICH

The watchdogs at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich were jolted by clouds Wednesday night as they waited for a chance to photograph the new Comet 1956-H wending its way through the heavens.

"However, hopes are still high. Observatory director R. M. Petrie said today the comet, nearly 70,000,000 miles away, will be in position for photographing for several weeks yet.

Each night the camera is set up in the hopes of a break. One sour note is the comet's brightness diminishes each day but it is still "fairly bright."

Queen's Scouts at the ceremony — Michael Whiteaker, Brian Small, David Carl and David Field. Johnny Slater of Sidney, whose father, Flight Sergeant Jonathan Slater was killed while serving with the RCAF during the war, also received the coveted award.

Vancouver produced the greatest number of Queen's Scouts, 32. Five came from Kelowna and seven from near-by Rutland. Chilliwack produced four and New Westminster four.

From Fernie came Blake Ridyard, Jock Arbuckle and Dick Pinotti.

TOO BIG

"I like Victoria but I'd like it better if it wasn't so big," 15-year-old Blake Ridyard said.

Other scouts from small B.C. towns also regarded the capital as a teeming metropolis by comparison.

"It's much bigger than I expected," said Robert Jennejohn, 16, who joined the Nelson Wolf Cub pack when he was eight and is now with the 5th Nelson scout troop.

In spite of their crowded schedule in Victoria, the scouts found time for the day's good turn that is an essential of scout training.

MAKE OWN BED

At the homes where they are billeted during the two-day visit, they made their own beds, helped with the washing-up and in some cases minded infants before setting out for a tour of the Legislative Buildings and the Provincial Museum—the first event of the day.

"Everyone has been kind to us," said Harry F. Middleton, 15-year-old Kelowna scout, "and we like to help out in any way we can."

Arvid Kristiansen from Rutland is billeted at the University School and finds this scholastic atmosphere to his liking.

"Victoria is certainly a garden city—I'd like to live here. But Rutland is pretty good, too," he said.

"SIR," "MA'AM"

Without exception, the Scouts address male adults as "Sir" and women as "Ma'am." They are clean and smart in appearance and behave respectfully to all without being timid or shy.

"Scouts are trained to be self-reliant," said provincial field commissioner Jim Blaine. "Therefore they do not adopt an apologetic attitude—they are Scouts and proud of it."

Provincial Executive Commissioner Jordan said the visiting Scouts had conducted themselves in a dignified and orderly fashion.

This was evident from the moment they arrived in Esquimalt Wednesday evening aboard the RCN frigate New Glasgow and proceeded to Thunderbird Park for roll-call.

In less than half an hour every Scout had been picked up by his host or hostess, many of them parents of Victoria Scouts, and Thunderbird Park was deserted except for two or three officials.

TOUR

The Scouts were conducted over the Legislative Buildings by H. R. Roy of the provincial archives, who told them there were 400,000 books in the library and 110 B.C. newspapers on view.

They were especially interested in the portraits of Canadian VCs from the First and Second World Wars which are hung in the entrance to the library.

And their attention was drawn to the picture of Lt. Col. Cecil Merritt of Vancouver, who won his VC in the famed Dieppe raid of 1942 and is now a leading scout executive.

The scouts also inspected the portraits of B.C. lieutenant-governors and premiers hung outside the legislative chamber and then viewed the stuffed animals in the provincial museum.

To round out the morning, the scouts went swimming at the Crystal Garden before being entertained at luncheon by the lieutenant-governor.

DINNER TONIGHT

Tonight they are attending a dinner in the Crystal Garden tendered by the provincial scout council at which Times editor Bruce Hutchison will be the main speaker.

"The visit has been a tremendous success so far," said Victoria district executive commissioner Robert Milks.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1957 19

Three Boys Rescued After Obeying Orders

Three 16-year-old Victoria boys obeyed "standing orders" Wednesday night—and cheated a stormy Juan de Fuca Strait.

In accordance with instructions from their parents, the boys paddled their 10-foot fiberglass boat to the nearest shore when the motor conked out, and there awaited rescue.

The boys are: Roger Peek-Vout, 2730 Foul Bay Road, owner of the boat. Barry Menzies, 1860 Greatford Place. Alex Campbell, 1834 Newton.

NO HARM

Outside of wear and tear on the nerves of their anxious parents, and loss of sleep, no ill came from their adventure.

It started at 10 a.m. Wednesday when the three boys, all on Easter vacation from Oak Bay High School, set out from Oak Bay beach for a day's fishing.

At 4:30 p.m., the motor of their tiny craft conked out, and a rising wind whipped the sea into a vicious chop.

Instead of trying to paddle back to Oak Bay against the wind, they obeyed instructions and made for the nearest land—a sheltered cove on South Chatham Island.

They had told their parents they would be back home at 5 p.m., so felt reasonably sure a search would be launched for them by nightfall.

Continuing to follow "standing orders," the boys then lit signal fires, and settled down to wait for help.

When darkness fell, their parents sent out an alarm, and the waterfront sprang into action.

Co-ordinated by Air Sea Rescue at Vancouver, boats were readied by Royal Victoria Yacht Club members, B.C. Pilotage Authority, the RCN, and Island Tug & Barge Ltd.

At 1:55 a.m., an RVYC member, Dick Alexander, in his cruiser Duna, spotted the signal fires and picked up the three boys—cold, hungry and tired.

NO, HENRY IT'S FOR BACK NOT STOMACH

There's nothing like a hot drink to put a little fire in the stomach on a cool day, but 22-months-old Henry Peterson, 1426 Vining, really started a blaze when he gulped a few slugs of liniment.

Behind his mother's back the youngster took a few pulls straight from the bottle this morning before her frantic hands rescued him.

City police took the child and mother to Jubilee Hospital where the liniment was pumped out and a smoother potion poured in.

Set up for the day, little Henry was sent home.

2-Year Terms For Young Burglars

Two 18-year-old Vancouver youths, Donald Lloyd-Davison and Stanley Lionel Deacon, were given jail sentences of two years less a day determinate and six months indeterminate on each of eight burglary charges faced in city police court today.

All terms will be served concurrently.

The pair was captured by a beat constable who discovered more than $3,000 in jewelry and merchandise on a downtown hotel fire escape early April 17.

Police found four shops had been entered in a single downtown block that night and the two, who tried to hide on their hotel roof when Const. John Burdny investigated suspicious noises, pleaded guilty to these and four other charges arising from entries to four stores in the same block April 14.

There were six charges of breaking, entering and theft, or intent to steal, and two charges of attempted breaking and entering.

Davison was sentenced to New Haven and Deacon to young offender's unit at Oakalla Prison.

INTENTION

"You pleaded guilty to a very large number of offences," Magistrate H. C. Hall said.

"You came here from Vancouver and it would certainly appear that you came with the intention of carrying out these offences... (committed with) deliberate purpose... not once but a number of times."

Merchants May Defy Closing Law

The 45-member Independent Merchants' Co-Operative Association here today girded for action to break regulations in the new Municipal Act which would close them in the evenings.

First step is circulation of an open letter to housewives seeking their support, and second move will be a public meeting May 10 at 8 p.m. in the Labor Temple where specific anti-legislation resolutions will be drafted.

To date 500 letters have been sent housewives over the signature of William Palmer, 1109 Kings Road, association president, and another 1,000 are slated for mailing.

EFFECTIVE JULY 1

The act calls for closing of stores that sell groceries every evening except Fridays, when they can stay open until 9 p.m. The act becomes effective July 1.

Said the letter to housewives: "It is up to you to demand our services be maintained. It is the little guy who gives you many services you are entitled to. He does not hire help nor does he conflict with the principles of labor, but he sure pays plenty of taxes to our fair city's treasury department, and is a fixture in your community you can depend on."

Victoria Due For Another Polio Epidemic

The Victoria area is about due for another bad polio epidemic, a spokesman for the Victoria Medical Society warned today.

Last serious polio year here was 1956, when there were 140 cases.

Five persons died, three went into iron lungs and several are still in respirators.

Polio tends to recur in communities every few years, the doctor said.

"All the Salk vaccine in the world won't prevent polio unless it's under the people's skins," he added, urging the people to take advantage of the society's mass inoculation program starting next month.

It is hoped that 20,000 young Victoria adults will register for the three shots—at a total cost of $3.

Registration cards will be distributed for $1—cost of the first shot—in local drug stores all next week.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Could you tell me the name of the bird that sings after dark. I've heard it regularly recently around 9:45 on. Its voice is very sweet but its song is short and repeated at regular intervals. If you know its name could you also include its description. Mrs. H.I.F.

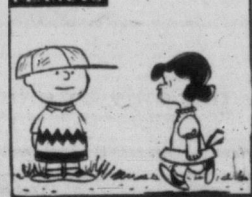

A.—From your enquiry, provincial ornithologists describe your night-singer as a typical member of the sparrow family, small and brown. One distinguishing feature gives the bird its common name, the white-crowned sparrow.

Q.—Can you tell me if a miner can stake a claim for minerals in the E. & N. Railway belt? J.W.A.

A.—He can stake, but only on ores for gold and silver. All other minerals are vested in the E. & N. Railway.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times Editor and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Whirly-Skirted Dresses
For Square Dance Jamboree

By PENNY SAVER

I'm told that the Square Dance Jamboree takes place next week. Those of you who haven't bought your square dance dress can still buy bright, attractive ones with huge, eight-yard skirts. A new shipment has arrived just in time for the jamboree. Of drip-dry cotton, the many-patterned dresses with a variety of stylish necklines are priced at $12.95. Others, with the same attractive stylings but with less swirl to the skirts are from $6.95.

Sub-teen styles are getting better and better, and the party dresses found today will thrill any junior high schooler. Filmy nylon is posed over stiffened net and taffeta, forming a wonderfully full skirt. The gathered bodice features an Italian neckline, and to complete the picture, there's an empire line jacket, a perfect complement to the long, orso line of the bodice. This particular dress comes in both mint green and pink. Many other styles are available, too. This is the party time of year, especially for students, so these dresses will be popular. They are under $20.

I noticed some new overalls for juniors. These are a red and white trim, and instead of a bib front, there is a mannish weskit of white trimmed with the plaid. They are $3.95.

come in very little boy sizes, and are $4.95.

If you enjoy doing or seeing attractive needlepoint, these pictures will please you. The main picture is finished, but you fill in the background with white, or the color to suit your room decor. In a kit there is a hand-embroidered picture, yarn to complete the piece, instructions and an oval glass and wooden frame. There are many floral patterns from which to choose. Finishing the picture will be fun, and you'll have the enjoyment of hanging a picture you've helped to make.

The complete kits are yours for $3.98.

Improving In-Law Relationship

We have been married for sixteen years, during which time my in-laws have visited us very little. In fact, the last time was when our son was born five years ago, even then, one of them didn't even send us a card. We have visited them several times. The other day I received a letter from the one who didn't send a card. It said, "my daughter is graduating this year, so I thought you would like one of her pictures, which I am sending." What is expected of us? Do we just send a thank you note, or are we to send a gift?

Louise Davis Answers:
The first thing to do would be to write a thank you note for the photograph, for that amounts to a gift from them. You will have to use your own judgment about sending a graduation gift. Apparently you have a grudge against the young girl's parents, but that shouldn't mean that your grudge should extend to the young girl herself, who I am sure hasn't done anything to offend you. Why punish her because you are annoyed or hurt by her parents? If you are thoughtful in helping to make her happy on this important occasion in her young life, perhaps you will ingratiate yourselves with the parents, and it might help to establish a better relationship.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The short, rapid reducing diet (when you have only a few pounds to lose) is valuable because it is so encouraging. Practically every woman can stick to a slimming diet for nine days time—especially if she knows she can lose a certain number of pounds in that time.

If you have many pounds to lose, the short, rapid diet gives you a good start and encourages you to continue. After this exciting beginning you can add three or four hundred calories a day for the long pull. It is not wise to lose a great deal of weight too rapidly.

The short reducing diet causes many women to lose overweight who would otherwise procrastinate from month to month and year to year. When dieting it is always wise to take supplementary vitamins. You should also pay special attention to skin lubrication since fats are cut in the diet and the skin must be pliable in order to adjust to its new proportions.

If you are using my 9-day reducing diet, stick to it. It is of short duration and you will not succeed if you diet one day and then go over your prescribed calorie intake the next.

FRIDAY'S MENUS

Luncheon—Fresh fruit salad, two tablespoons cottage cheese, one glass skimmed milk, one thin slice of whole wheat toast.

If you have missed some of these menus or would like to have my nine-day reducing diet in a small booklet, send 10 cents and a self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Allen-Sinkinson Wedding Vows Spoken in Double-Ring Service

St. David's-by-the-Sea Anglican Church was decorated with fresh spring flowers last Saturday for the ceremony which united in marriage Carolyn May Sinkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Sinkinson, 1104 D'Arcy Lane, Cordova Bay, and Donald Barclay Allen, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Allen, 3015 Foul Bay Road.

Rev. R. J. Welsh conducted the double-ring service and traditional wedding music was played by organist, A. S. Miller. During signing of the register, Mrs. Dorothy Ashby sang a solo.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride was lovely in her full-length gown of white satin with overskirt of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice of lace featured a scalloped neckline. A coronet of pearls and sequins held the bride's fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses surrounded by white feathered carnations. She wore the groom's gift of cultured pearls.

Maid of honor, Miss Edna Galt of North Vancouver, wore a ballerina-length gown of yellow nylon chiffon over taffeta with draped bodice, full skirt and floating panel of chiffon at back.

Bridesmaids, Miss Joan Smith, Burnaby, and Miss Susan Sinkinson, sister of the bride, wore gowns similar to the one worn by Miss Galt, but in aqua shade. All carried colonial bouquets of yellow and aqua carnations and wore floral headaddresses to match.

The groom had Gerald Stewart as best man and Lewis Knott, Russell Robertson and Brian Sinkinson, brother of the bride, as ushers.

Her accessories matched and she wore a gardenia corsage.

Dr. M. W. Lees proposed the toast to the bride and the couple cut a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink roses and surrounded by white tulle sprinkled with the same buds. Silver candelabra flanked the cake.

Motoring to Portland on honeymoon, the bride wore a pale blue fitted suit with pink hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses and stephanotis.

Ann Williamson and Keith Wilson Wed in Pink and White Setting

As Malcolm Hamilton, organist, played traditional wedding music, Miss Margaret Ann Williamson, on the arm of her father, entered First United Church to become the bride of Keith Evan Wilson in a ceremony performed by Rev. A. I. Higgins.

The lovely, dark-haired bride had two attendants gowned in pink with highlights of white, carrying out a pink and white motif of the entourage and floral setting. Carnations, snapdragons and Easter lilies were placed at the front of the church for the service which united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Williamson, 1473 Hillside Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Wilson, 86 Maddock Avenue.

A ballerina-length gown fashioned with lace bodice and jacket and full, hooped skirt of net and lace was worn by the bride. From a tulle of sequins and pearls misted a fingertip veil of illusion net, and completing her ensemble, she carried a bridal bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Maureen Clark, and bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Wilson, sister of the groom, were gowned alike in pink-patterned nylon dresses.

Their bandeaux were of white feathers, and their bouquets of pink and white carnations and blue iris.

The groom had his brother, Jim Wilson, as best man. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows were Bob Jones and Alan Mercer.

A reception party was held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where a lace and linen cloth covered the bride's table centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Pink tulips and white candles in silver holders completed the arrangement. The bride's uncle, D. Y. Russell, proposed the toast. Telegrams from relatives in Australia were read.

For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a beige knitted suit complemented with chocolate brown shoes and bag, a honey-beige hat and brown muskrat cape. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Following a honeymoon trip to Seattle and a tour of the state of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home in Victoria.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by our readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times. Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Stephanie Shields, 8, Omaha, Neb., for her question:

Why Do Earthquakes Happen?

At a quarter to noon, on March 22, our old Andy got shaken up in an earthquake. He was sitting in his chair writing you-know-what when suddenly a load of big books tumbled out of the bookcase into his lap. A statue of the Roman goddess Diana fell down and broke off her head. Mrs. Rama-Pooka, Andy's white cat, scooted off and climbed up the chimney. For the ground was shaking sideways and up and down and everything—everything was jolted along with it.

This, of course, was the recent earthquake of the beautiful city of San Francisco. It was a fairly bad one. Windows were broken, a few chimney pots fell and all the cans and bottles in Andy's favorite supermarket were shaken onto the floor. The upset lasted about a minute—no one was hurt seriously. Mrs. Rama-Pooka let Andy wash her white again, the statue was mended and things were soon back to normal.

The earthquake was caused by masses of heavy rock rumbling and tumbling about miles below the ground. In some places, the deep layers of the earth's crust are cracked, buckled and piled up like a pile of building blocks, they are likely to topple. When this happens, the upset is felt by the surface layers over the upheaval. The ground shakes, shifts and sometimes cracks open in fissures.

Such an area of topsy-turvy underground layers of rock is called a fault in the earth's crust. As you expect, it occurs where the surface is uneven. Faults follow the line of high mountains beside ocean depths and earthquakes haunt the faulty regions.

One earthquake belt, at the foot of the Himalaya ridge, runs along the Mediterranean region. Another runs along the high mountains that border the western shores of North and South America. The San Andreas, the most active fault in the world, is in this region. It begins up north, under the Pacific Ocean, moves into California just north of San Francisco, runs south to the Salton Sea and maybe into the Gulf of Mexico.

Around San Francisco, the San Andreas fault wrinkles like an old apple into several faults.

Any one of them can shrug its shoulders and shake the city. The recent one registered 5.3 on the earthquake scale and shocked the needle of the recording instrument out of use. There were sizeable quakes before and after the big one. For it takes many shakeups before the tumbled rocks below ground are settled again.

The year 1806 is remembered for a far more severe quake that shook San Francisco. Gas mains were broken and a plentiful supply of fire fighting water. And this time the city was ready to defend itself from the worst danger of an earthquake—which is fire.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Donald Burdette, age 12, of Peoria, Illinois, for his question:

How do mushrooms compare with toadstools?

Mushrooms and toadstools are all members of the fungus plant family. There are countless varieties of fungi, ranging from the big puff balls to tiny yeasts that make our daily bread. Over a hundred fungi are good to eat, some are harmful and a few are downright poisonous. We very often class the good ones as mushrooms and the bad ones as toadstools. It would be fine if the different fungi wore signs, Eat Me, Better Leave Me Alone or Definitely Leave Me Alone. But they do not. What's more, at certain stages, some of the mushrooms resemble some of the best. Only an expert dares go gathering strange fungi growing wild with the idea of sampling a new flavor. Andy suggests that you never, never eat a wild mushroom unless someone who is quite sure tells you that it is not a toadstool.

All the fungi with white spore powder in the gills under the umbrella are poisonous. So are those with milky white juice. The most dangerous have a round base to the stem. An expert avoids these danger signs—but even this is not enough. He avoids all baby mushrooms growing in the wild. For some of these youngsters look just like friends and turn out to be enemies.

Foreign Capital Boon to Canada

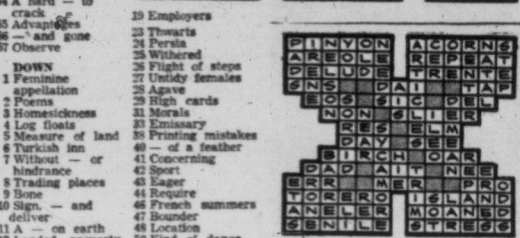

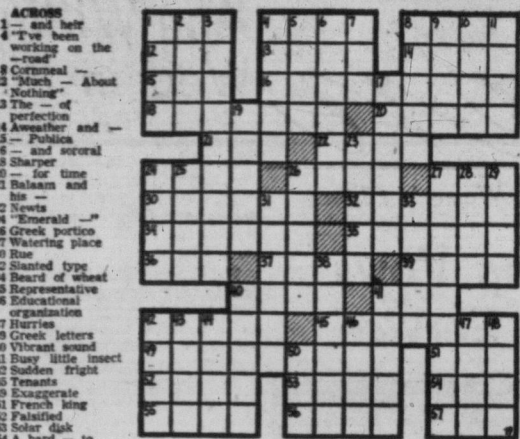

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, vice-chancellor and principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., said Tuesday night there should be no limitation imposed by Canada on investment from other countries, especially the United States.

He also told the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy that Canada's greatest need in the period ahead is not industrial resources or capital but trained, educated persons of integrity.

Dr. Mackintosh said current external investment was a minor fraction of the total annual investment in Canada. It was almost wholly business investment, largely equity investment, and was conspicuous where it was concentrated in certain industries.

"Much of it is in the form of direct investment by United States companies and in certain areas it carries with it financial control. It should be clear to us that without this external investment the whole rate of progress and development would be sharply reduced. Every period of economic advance in this country has been accompanied by the import of capital.

"It is clear that there ought to be no limitation imposed by Canada on investment from other countries. Capital has come to us not only because of investment opportunities but also because of reliance on fair and reasonable treatment."

PLEASURE AFLOAT

How to Play Safe With Boat Trailers

Growth in popularity of the small trailer-borne inboard or outboard craft has given rise to a multitude of new problems connected with dragging boats around the countryside on wheels.

With care, a boat can be towed for thousands of miles on a trailer, and be loaded and unloaded countless times, without mishap. Carelessness and ignorance, though, can cause damage with disastrous suddenness either on the open highway, in traffic, on the launching ramp, or even in the water.

Trouble in the water, of course, is a delayed reaction to maltreatment of some kind, on land.

Observance of the following simple suggestions will take care of all the major troubles that beset towed trailers, and will ensure that boat and engine travel safely and without harm.

Use safety chains. They will prevent loss of trailer and boat if the hitch mechanism breaks.

Check trailer hitch and tie-downs for security after driving a few miles.

Loosen the tie-down when the trailer is parked overnight.

Check the car's insurance policy to make sure it is covered when towing a trailer.

Make sure the trailer fits the boat. The boat should be supported in at least three places. If a motor is carried on the boat, insist on transom support.

When towing a trailer, drive accordingly. Remember it takes more room to pass another car, more room to park and a greater distance to stop. Drive at slightly slower speeds.

HIGHER WAGE SCALES

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia school teachers voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to seek higher salaries. They say they want the right to strike if necessary.

More than 600 delegates to the annual B.C. Teachers' Federation convention rejected a recommendation from their salary committee that they retain the present minimum wage scales for another year.

The committee was instructed to draw up a higher scale and report back later today.

During a two-hour debate, the teachers also asked that the Public Schools Act be amended so that arbitration awards need not be accepted unless there is prior agreement by both parties. Executive assistant J. A. Sprague said this "could mean the right to strike."

Socreds 'Nuts', Says PM's Son

"If the Socreds send a candidate against me he will not get 100 votes," Mr. St. Laurent said.

was Mike King, prospector and timber cruiser.
He bumped into the creature crossing the trail from Port Hardy to the west coast.
It was drawing near evening when he saw the Sasquatch bending down over a waterhole, washing edible grass roots.

At Mr. King's approach, the man-beast uttered a human cry "of mingled terror and defiance" and ran off.

Said Mr. King:
"His body was covered with reddish brown hair and the arms were peculiarly long and used freely in climbing and bush running."

"The trail showed a distinct human foot, with phenomenally long and spreading toes."
On May 2, 1905, the Colonel reported that a party of Indians in a canoe saw what they believed to be a bear on the shore between Union Bay and Comox.

One of the braves fired a shot and a naked man straightened up and ran off into the trees. He had apparently been digging clams.

An Indian legend tells of the young Indian youth of the Comox tribe who was sent out by the witch doctor up the Puntledge River into the land of the evil spirits.

Escaped

He told of being captured by a group of huge, strange men and escaping after they tossed him over a cliff.

Reports of the wild man's existence on the Island were so persistent that in the spring of 1928 an expedition was organized in Vancouver.

It was under the direction of Jason Ovid Allard, 80-year-old adventurer, historian and lineal descendent of the legendary Tshosha, who was king of the Cowichan-Indian nation extending from Saanich to Comox and up the Fraser to Yale.

Allard went first to Washington where he interviewed a Henry Napoleon of the Clallam tribe who claimed to have come in contact with the Sasquatch.

"I had been visiting relatives near Duncan, and was warned not to go too far into the wilderness," Napoleon told Allard.

However in following a buck I had wounded, I went in farther than I expected. It was almost twilight when I came across an animal that I believed to be a big bear.

Spoke to Me

"But as I aimed at it with my gun, the creature looked up and spoke to me in my own tongue. It was a man about seven feet tall, and his body was very hairy."

Napoleon said he was invited to meet the rest of the tribe and was led into an underground trail.

The Sasquatch hibernates like a bear in the winter months, Napoleon said. In the summer it raided coastal tribes and carried off women and children.

Allard was told that the Puntledge tribe was practically wiped out about 1850 in a night raid of strange natives from Forbidden Plateau.

Coast Indians today are still leery about going into the Plateau area.

Allard tracked down a number of rumors and legends and found no concrete evidence that the Sasquatch still lived on the Island.

But who knows?

told a Liberal party rally at Vancouver Wednesday night.
"Social Credit can spend all the money they like to tell you they're winning support in the east, but they are not and they will not."

He reiterated that his father does not plan to retire after the June 10 election. He told the rally that "if Providence gives my dad the same health he has today he will be back in the 1961 election."

Saying that the country does not "want to hear from those crackpots across the floor" of the House—the opposition—Mr. St. Laurent added we "would willingly give up two seats in the east for one seat in the west for the good of Canada—we must have in our caucuses more people from the west to get the real views of this part of the country."

Harold Winch, CCF member of Parliament for Vancouver East, says Premier Bennett stuck his neck out in Ontario and "got it chopped off."

DISMAL FLOP

"All his bluffing now can't hide the fact the Toronto meeting was a dismal flop," Mr. Winch said at a CCF meeting here.

"The premier's gross miscalculation has convinced the Social Credit will not elect one member east of Alberta."

Mr. Winch also criticized a statement in which the premier is reported to have said that Canada has no foreign friends.

"Canada has greater influence and respect today than ever before," Mr. Winch said.

Mr. Winch is expected to be re-nominated May 1 to defend Vancouver East.

Fergie Brown, cartage company traffic manager, was named Wednesday night to contest Vancouver-Kingsway riding for the Progressive Conservatives in the June 10 election.

The only B.C. riding in which the Conservatives now have not named a candidate is Kootenay East.

All Progressive Conservative candidates for B.C. ridings will gather in Vancouver Saturday for a campaign meeting.

The candidates will get together with their campaign managers and party officials to work out strategy and policy details.

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP) — Real Madrid, Spanish Soccer League champions, tied English champions Manchester United 2-2 tonight and qualified for the final of the European Cup against Fiorentina of Italy.

The Spaniards previously defeated Manchester 3-1 in Madrid and won on a 5-3 aggregate goals basis. The match was decided on total goals in the home and away matches.

A sell-out crowd of 62,000 cheered wildly every Manchester move, but the Spanish team always had the edge when it came to craft and brilliant ball control. The second half was televised with an estimated 6,000,000 fans watching the play.

Manchester's defeat ruined its chances of the unique treble of success in English League and cup and European Cup competitions. Manchester already had won the English League championship for the second straight year and is due to meet Aston Villa in the English Cup final May 4 at Wembley Stadium.

Three Mill Tax Hike in Oak Bay; Salary Boosts, Drainage Blamed

Oak Bay's 4,200 home owners will pay an additional three mills on their 1957 taxes, it was learned today.
This jumps the rate to 31.95. Increase was necessitated by three main factors: construction of storm sewers for drainage, school costs, including increased salaries, and recent increases granted some municipal employees.
Biggest project which accounts for 1.33 mills is extensive construction of drains at an estimated cost of $36,000. School costs will account for about one-half mill and the difference will go towards municipal costs, including purchase of new equipment.
Tenders were opened Wednesday for construction of the new

Seven bids were received. Lowest was from Parfitt Construction Co. Ltd. for $39,256, while the others ranged up to $49,448.

Decision on awarding of the contract will be made at a special council meeting Friday at 5:30 p.m.

Canadian Truce Official Probes Cannon's Murder

SAIGON, Indochina (UP)—Canadian commissioner Thomas Carter flew to Hanoi, North Viet Nam, Wednesday, from Saigon, where he has spent 11 days investigating the murder of Canadian diplomat Lucien Cannon. He is expected to return Saturday.

Police and Canadian officials have not disclosed what progress they have made in probing the April 12 fatal stabbing of Cannon inside a guarded compound housing truce commission officials.

Informed sources said Cannon is considering sending a criminal investigator to Saigon to aid in the murder inquiry.

stayers steaming toward Middle East water so fast that 150 of the Forrester's crew, on leave in Paris, were left behind.

King Hussein has attributed his country's troubles to "international communism and its followers." He said Wednesday that he could handle the situation without outside help.

Today as King Hussein struggled to preserve his government against a leftist-led revolt, here were the major developments:

1. Premier Hussein Khalidi, a moderate, bowed to leftist threats and violence and resigned.

2. King Hussein called on former Premier Ibrahim Hashem, a firm friend of the west, to form a new government.

3. Hussein ordered his army to take over Jordan's towns and cities, declared martial law, imposed a strict curfew, and made an appeal to his people for peace and order. He also was reported to have ordered Syrian troops out of the country immediately or be forced out by his Iraqi allies.

4. Troops from Saudi Arabia and Iraq were reported to have taken up positions shielding the Jordanian capital of Amman from the pro-communist Palestinian section of the country on the west and from pro-communist Syria in the north.

5. Israel Radio reported King Hussein has arrested former premier Sulaiman Nabulsi and that a number of army officers are being held in custody.
6. The Foreign Office announced in London it considers Jordan's stability "essential" to Middle Eastern peace and that it is consulting "other nations" on the new crisis.

7. The ultra-nationalist Herut Party in Jerusalem demanded that Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion recall parliament from vacation to consider the Jordan situation. Informed sources said Ben-Gurion was not likely to act. Both Ben-Gurion and Israeli Army Chief of Staff Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan were away from Jerusalem.

8. Syrian president Shukri El Kuwathli, Maj. Gen. Awfik Nizam El Din, Syrian army chief of staff, Foreign Minister Salah Bitar and other officials flew from Damascus to Cairo for consultations with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

There were no indications that French and British naval units also in the Mediterranean had received similar orders to the U.S. fleet.

However, all three nations could act under their 1950 agreement to come to the aid of any Middle Eastern nation threatened by aggression.

Strict censorship continued to cloud the situation inside Jordan, but United Press correspondent Joe Morris reported from Amman, the capital, that the Jordanian army had firm control of the city.

Armored units also were ordered to take over the Jordan section of Jerusalem, Jericho and Nablus.

Reports from Jerusalem said that a number of persons had been killed or wounded in Wednesday's clashes between security forces and demonstrators. They said a number of policemen had joined the demonstrators.

One hundred soldiers were reported guarding the American Consulate in Old Jerusalem where rival sound trucks alternately were shouting the populace to remain peaceful at home or to demonstrate in the streets.

MOUNT ANGEL, Ore. (AP)—A week-long stay at the Mount Angel Benedictine Monastery here was ended Tuesday by Ramon Navarro, a leading screen actor in the silent screen era.

He makes the visits "whenever I feel the need for peace and relaxation." He left Portland later in the day to return to his home in California.

TWO STORIES JIBE

Cloak-and-Dagger Rescue Confirmed

TOKYO (AP)—A Tokyo business executive today backed up the story of an American pilot's daring flight into Communist China and said "there is no doubt about it."

Dwight L. Moore, director of Air Tour Associates, said he heard "exactly the same story" 10 days ago in Bangkok from the British co-pilot of the plane, whose identity has been kept secret.

Officials in Hong Kong and Macao have dubbed "fantastic" the story told by Henry Bush, a vacationing pilot for the Venezuelan airline who said he flew 350 miles into the Red mainland April 5 to fly the son of a wealthy Chinese businessman to freedom.

"There's no way two men so many miles apart could have the same story right down to the last detail," said Moore. Moore has been in the Far East for the last 11 years and in 1948-49 served as a Marshall plan official in China.

STORIES JIBE

Moore said he had known the mystery co-pilot "for some time." The flier, an unemployed former airline representative in the Thai capital, drew Moore a flight plan which jibed with the route for the flight outlined by Bush, Moore said.

"Everything jibed," said Moore, who called the co-pilot "a completely reliable person."

Moore, who met Bush only Thursday, said the co-pilot had been out of work for the last few months but was wearing "very expensive jewelry—the same kind Bush is wearing."

Bush said earlier that he was given a watch, a ring and other gifts for the flight.

The watch worn by the co-pilot in Bangkok was engraved with the same Chinese characters appearing on the back of Bush's watch, Moore said.

Fire Sweeps Seminary, 650 Escape

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP)—Fire raged today through a 100-year-old section of the Joliette Seminary in this town 50 miles north of Montreal.

The fire was discovered while most of the 580 students were on the recreation grounds. The seminary had a staff of 70 and all were believed to have escaped.

The fire was believed to have started in a fourth-floor dormitory in the oldest section of the five-story, stone and wood structure. Plumbers had been working in the dormitory and it was believed a blow torch may have started the blaze.

PLANE

Dalton on a combined business and pleasure flight and phoned her at 6 p.m., saying he was flying back.

Mr. McDowell was sponsor's representative for the CBC program Harmony House. For 10 years he worked for James Lovick and Co., a Vancouver advertising firm. He once produced an early morning radio show for radio station CKOK in Penikese. He also was on the staff of CKDA, Victoria.

The last plane, a Navion, left Penikese at 7.46 p.m. It carried only enough fuel to stay aloft until midnight.

HEARD PLANE

Robert Reading, 19-year-old trainee radio operator at Patricia Bay airport said he heard "what I think was the missing plane" on the air at about 10 p.m.

He said all he could distinguish over the crowded airwaves were the plane's identification letters—IDP.

U.S. Moves To Restrict Oil Imports

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today ruled that crude oil is being imported into the United States in such quantities as to "threaten to impair the national security."

The president's vacation headquarters announced that Eisenhower had approved a finding to that effect by Gordon Gray, chief of the office of defence mobilization.

U.S. independent oil producers have been complaining that imported crude is depressing domestic price.

Eisenhower's action indicated quota restriction will be placed on imports.

U.S. Asks Ban On A-Research

LONDON (AP)—The United States proposed today that all research on intercontinental ballistic missiles be halted in the first stage of any disarmament agreement.

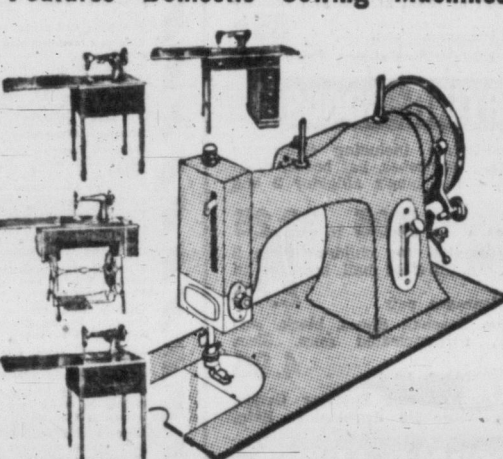

United States delegate Harold Stassen told the United Nations disarmament subcommittee the initial step should include measures to prevent the development of all outer space nuclear weapons.

ONE HOUSE—FOR FREE

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Desmond Brand of Sunshine, Victoria, bought a lot, intending to build a home on it. When he took his girl to see it both rubbed their eyes. The house was already there.

The explanation: A builder made a mistake and put up another man's house on the wrong lot.

The Victoria Supreme Court has held that the house belongs to Brand, because he knew nothing about it and because the builder later refused to negotiate with him. The builder says he will appeal.
